Zone Change Favored for Shopping Plaza Tighter Control New Threat in Berlin

Quit Jobs, Easterners Are Told Believe 80,000 Working in West

BERLIN (AP)—Tightened Communist police controls at rail points entering Berlin were reported by West Berlin officials today amid new threats from Red East Germany.

"Some day we will lead all Germany, even if you do not understand that today," wrote Gerhard Eisler, top East German propagandist, in the Berliner Zeitung. West Berlin officials said they had eyewitness reports of increased Communist police controls over railways in areas of East Germany surrounding the city. Many commuters from East to West Berlin also were reported arrested in the campaign to force East Berliners who work in West Berlin to give up their jobs and work for the Communists.

800 Have Yielded

About 800 East Berliners have yielded to such pressure and quit during the past month. Western officials reported. About 52,000 East Germans or East Berliners are registered as working in the city's Western sector, but the actual number is believed closer to 80,000.

A political storm was raging meanwhile over Sen. J. William Fulbright's suggestion that the city's role as an escape hatch from East Germany is a point that can be negotiated with the Communists.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the suggestion Sunday in a television interview. He was bitterly criticized in West Berlin and praised for his "realistic understanding" by the official Communist daily Neues Deutschland.

Brandt Can't See It

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin said he could not imagine the senator had been quoted correctly.

"We are still of the opinion," Brandt said, "that freedom must include freedom of movement for Germans from one part of the country to the other. We cannot make ourselves accomplices of the inhuman and arbitrary measures of the Communists."

A West German Cabinet minister, Ernest Lemmer, said that he could not agree that any such measure would reduce tension between East and West.

The newspaper Der Kurier accused Fulbright of disavowing the United Nations Declaration on Human Rights.

1,500 Refugees a Day

Strong Lobby Is Going on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is turning over every political rock on Capitol Hill in the most intensive campaign a president ever put on for a foreign aid bill.

Members of the Senate and House accustomed to being lobbied for their support of legislation say they have never seen anything like the energy Kennedy is investing in his drive to get approval of a long-range development loan program.

In groups and singly the President has had members in to make his case in behalf of his $8.8-billion request for development lending over five years to struggling new nations. Of this, $7.3 billion would come in borrowing from the Treasury without year-to-year congressional approval. The rest would come from repayments of postwar loans.

A Lot to Ask

This adds up to a heap of presidential authority to ask from Congress, always jealous of its control of the purse strings.

The Kennedy campaign has been mapped carefully and pursued vigorously. He got a Citizens Committee for International Development to work drumming up popular support. The AFL-CIO clapped in with a letter-writing campaign.

While Senate and House committees were in the process of considering the administration bill, the presidential charm was exercised on all of the members. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

Boy's Body Recovered In Hudson Anthony North, 17 Drowned Sunday

The body of Anthony North, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton North of 82 Abeel Street, drowned in the Hudson River Sunday off the Austin R. Newcombe & Co., Inc., dock at Kingston Point, was recovered at 7:15 a. m. 2½ miles south of the point where he was last seen.

Search for the body had been going on constantly during daylight hours since the young man disappeared Sunday afternoon. Taking part in the search were Kingston police, deputy sheriffs, firemen, members of the Ulster County Skin Divers Club and many volunteers. North and a companion had been swimming in the river off the long pier when he apparently met with difficulty and before help could arrive he disappeared.

Start at 6 A. M.

Grappling in the vicinity was begun and had continued throughout the daylight hours since Sunday.

This morning at 6 o'clock four boats resumed operations. The boat from Lou's Yacht basin at Eddyville, driven by Lou Roberti Sr., and occupied by Kingston Patrolmen George D. Deyo and (Continued on Page 8, Col. 7)

Unusual Values Offered Uptown In 3-Day Sale

A large stock of merchandise will be offered to the public at unusual values in the annual August Sales Days in the uptown shopping district Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, a spokesman for the Uptown Businessmen's Association said today.

Features of the sale will be clearance of spring and summer merchandise and the introduction of fall promotional values. Participating in the sales in the uptown area will be approximately 50 stores.

Parking space in the district will be available at the Senate Parking Lot on Clinton Avenue and Fair Street, the lot at the bottom of Fair Street behind Montgomery Ward, the Lucas Avenue Automatic Parking Lot and two county parking lots (one at the courthouse, the other at the corner of Fair and Main Streets).

It is reported that some "nice savings" will be available to shoppers in the uptown district.

OVERPOWERED AFTER SHOOTING—Brice Britt Sr., 40, of Smackover, Ark., lies chained on runway at Chico, Calif., after seriously wounding a ticket agent and the pilot of a plane in an attempt to get to his Arkansas home without a ticket. Britt, a construction worker, was overpowered by the pilot and passengers. (AP Wirephoto)

Soviet Program Seen Irritating Red Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP)—The proposed Soviet Communist party program just published in Moscow is seen by authorities here as a possible new source of irritation and dispute between the Soviet Union and Red China.

Authorities who have studied the voluminous document say that its emphasis on a need for avoiding war and for Premier Khrushchev's policy of "peaceful coexistence" is sharply at variance with the more aggressive policy of the Communist Chinese leaders.

20 Year Goals Set Up
Furthermore, in the view of Washington authorities, the program sets up 20-year goals for the Soviet Communist system which the Soviets may at least dream of achieving but the Chinese Reds with their more backward and underdeveloped country have no hope of realizing in such a relatively short period.

The statement of Soviet Communist aims and doctrine, the first such massive doctrinal work in more than 40 years, was published in Moscow Sunday.

Some Conclusions Reached
Several conclusions have been reached by some of the best-informed experts:

1. There is nothing fundamentally new or startling in the composition which some experts are beginning to refer to as the "Khrushchev doctrine" and others as a "pie-in-the-sky" statement of future hopes.

2. The main thrust of action insofar as foreign affairs are concerned is toward the underdeveloped countries of the world. The program draft makes "fraternal association" with such nations a cornerstone of Soviet foreign policy.

Kingston C of C Acts to Improve Rondout Harbor

Three important actions were taken at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. Vice President Sam Pepper presided in the absence of President Joseph E. O'Connor, who is ill. Representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce also were present.

A special Rondout Harbor Improvement Committee will be named to work for and coordinate efforts to improve and extend the channel in the Rondout Creek.

The first favorable step was taken by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce which may lead to the cooperative sponsorship of the Miss New York State Pageant along with the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Jaycees initiated (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

Developer Says Early Start Will Be Made Aldermen Critical of Merchants Over Parking; Merits of Center Questioned

A unanimous Common Council vote Tuesday night favored a zoning change that would permit use of an uptown tract fully within city bounds for a $2,000,000 shopping center to be known as The Kingston Shoppers Plaza.

Aldermen were critical of opposing uptown merchants, who, they held failed to cooperate in solving uptown parking problems, and they claimed the new shopping area will be an advantageous, integrated development, but opponents held it will be an isolated business district.

Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, counsel for opposing merchants, today noted the possibility of a taxpayers' suit because of a technicality involving the petition for the zoning change, but said it was undetermined at this time whether one would be instituted.

Thomas Muradian Jr., of Whitinsville, Mass., who seeks development of the 40-acre site of Fair Street Extension and on land owned by the Kingston Lumber Corp., said preliminary planning is to continue toward an early start of the project, and one first phase deals with making arrangements with the New York Central Railroad for crossing or relocation of tracks. He indicated in his April announcement of the building project that it would be completed in about a year.

Questions Signatures
Attorney Ewig said a question pertinent to the petition that still could be considered deals with signatures on the petition. Signatures of 50 per cent of borderline or adjacent property holders are required on such petitions. The one seeking the zoning change bore 56 per cent, but a later opposing petition contained some of the same names, it is held.

An opposing petition filed last night contained a reported 24.4 per cent or borderline of adjacent property holders' signatures. It could have been directly effective last night only if (Continued on Page 8, Col. 6)

To Challenge Order
"We will obey any lawful order," City Manager Joseph Mitchell said of the court order in Newburgh. He added, however, "immediate steps will be taken to challenge the order."

Mitchell claims almost one third of the city's budget of $3 million goes for welfare.

State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, after reviewing the program at the behest of the State Board of Welfare, went into court in quest of its injunction.

Lefkowitz claimed 12 of the 13 points escaped his challenge—the 10th, which provides for monthly interviews with relief recipients.

Latest Criticism
The latest criticism of the code came Tuesday from President Norman V. Lourie of the National Association of social workers, who claims to represent 30,000 professional social workers throughout the nation.

Lourie said employable persons who had lived less than a year in the state were a negligible part of Newburgh's $983,085-a-year welfare load. He called the percentage of Negroes on relief lower than in comparable cities in the state.

Mount to Conclusion
He contended that Newburgh has had a work relief program for a number of years, and added:

"All such facts mount to one conclusion—a hoax in order to adopt a punitive, regressive program that would drive needy and helpless people off of welfare—a tax reduction program regardless of human cost."

State Solicitor General Paxton Blair filed a supporting affidavit to Lefkowitz' legal proceeding. He listed three reasons why a temporary injunction was "an imperative necessity."

Says Clients Injured
First, he said, "the actions and threatened action of the defendants" in enforcing the program (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Speeder Average 150 on Thruway

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—On an average day, the Thruway Authority reports, about 150 persons are arrested for speeding on the superhighway.

The authority picked July 19 as an average day. Troopers arrested 94 New York residents and 56 persons from out of state on speeding charges. Men outnumbered women 138 to 12.

Kiwanis to Hold Rose Day Here On September 23

The Kingston Kiwanis Club is seeking financial support for its expanding community service work in a manner that should please the city's feminine population. Kiwanis president Vincent G. Connelly today announced that the club will attempt to induce every man in the community to send a dozen long-stemmed, cut roses to his "lady fair" on September 23rd, Kiwanis Rose Day in Kingston.

G. Herbert DeKay and John Haulenbeck, co-chairmen of the Kiwanis Rose Day project, said that every member of the Kingston service club will begin to take orders for the roses on August 10th, and that the club will deliver them to each home on Saturday, September 23rd.

"The roses will be sold at a nominal price per dozen," they added, "an excellent value for fine cut flowers. All money above the actual cost of the flowers will go to support Kiwanis' scholarship program and Key Club activities for the youth of Kingston," they explained.

Messrs. DeKay and Haulenbeck urged every man in the community to send roses to his wife and mother as a token of appreciation and admiration on Kiwanis Rose Day.

ROLL OUT THE BARREL—Dan Grinstead, left, and Terry McManus of Meeker Island, Wash., demonstrate their "barrel-o-plane," a "boat" they devised to enable them to walk on water at Seattle. Eight feet in diameter and eight feet across, built of plywood, the craft is propelled by passengers who walk inside squirrel-cage fashion. To steer it, passengers move to right or left and their weight pushes it in desired direction. (AP Wirephoto)

TRADERS—Dr. Frank M. Ball prepared to work on the teeth of Dale Gasper, a 24-year-old barber, who made a deal with the dentist to trade haircuts for a new set of teeth at Kansas City. Gasper said a dozen dentists responded to his offer to trade two years of barber service for dental work and he picked Ball who started the job. (AP Wirephoto)

THE OLD COLLEGE TRY

That hardy old perennial, electoral college reform, is back with us again this season. There is just a chance that something might come of it this time.

This year, under spur of the close 1960 election, some 20 different proposals have been tossed into the Senate to abolish or alter the existing system whereby each state elects a number of "electors" equal to its combined House-Senate representation, these then formally casting the state's vote for President of the United States.

The complaint is always the same: recording a state's electoral vote as a unit for the candidate with a state majority robs supporters of other candidates of all representation in the electoral college tally, and gives unfair weight to big city popular votes.

Three major reform proposals represent the essence of the 20 now submitted:

1. To abolish the electoral college altogether and settle for direct election of the President by popular vote.

Opposition to this plan is broad, especially from small states.

2. To keep the college but divide a state's electoral total proportionally according to the vote received by the various candidates. Arguments on this issue are complex, but in final balance both parties fear it might cost them commanding advantage in certain states where they are now heavily dominant.

3. To keep the college but choose the electors according to the presidential vote by districts, with two chosen at large as the equivalent of a state's two U.S. senators.

This plan has gained such varied adherents as former President Truman and GOP National Chairman William Miller. But lawmakers from the big cities distrust it as giving too much weight to conservative rural sectors.

What, then, is left to approve?

A modest proposal, put forth by President Kennedy as a senator in 1956, simply to do away with actual presidential electors but keep the same unit voting system.

The plan got a fresh boost when one Henry Irwin, a GOP elector from Oklahoma, refused to support his state's vote for Vice President Nixon and plumped instead for a Byrd-Goldwater ticket. There is real concern that an assortment of Henry Irwins in some other election could thwart the popular will and throw the contest into utter confusion.

To avoid such an outcome, Congress just might, between 1962 and 1964, approve this least sweeping of all electoral reform proposals.

DOWN ON THE FARM

The senior White House correspondent, Merriman Smith of United Press International, an extremely competent reporter and lively storyteller, journeyed to Gettysburg recently to set down for This Week magazine what retirement is like for former President Eisenhower.

As usual, Smith unfolded a sprightly, colorful yarn. It is just possible, however, that this time he buried the real "lead" of his piece in the next to last paragraph.

This, in Smith's words, is it:

"After dinner at home with Mamie, there was television and a stack of newspapers and bedtime a bit earlier than his habits of White House days. The reason for this, as he has told his friends is that regardless of how it may sound, he's been working harder on many days than he did as president."

The Berlin crisis is convincing evidence that unconditional surrender and unconditional victory are not always the same.

A headline reports Khrushchev's troubles are growing. There's a growth stock we'll buy.

Many people will follow the proposed investigation of stock exchanges in hope of picking up tips on when and what to buy.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
FLAG-POLE REVIVAL

A. R. Booker, of North Hollywood, writes me: "In looking down the block of our industrial section we observed that only one flag was flying in the entire block. It occurred to us that something has happened to our nationalistic spirit, which perhaps in a sense is reflected by our national leaders in their dealings with other nations."

So Booker put an advertisement in the newspapers advocating a flag-pole revival. His ad only brought him two letters. He says:

"When considering the placement of this advertisement I contacted the display-advertisement department of a major Los Angeles newspaper. When I first read the advertisement to him his comment was, 'What are you trying to do, sell flag poles or flags?' It appears that it is our American custom to assume that no one does anything without an 'angle.' This is unfortunate, and I assume many persons who read our ad may have been under the impression that we sold flags or flag poles. I can assure you we have no relationship with the flags or flag poles or the steel industry."

Flying the flag or singing the National Anthem is not as popular these days as it was, say, in my youth. For instance, in these parts, where once Longfellow and Bryant, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Nathaniel Hawthorne spent their summers, the Tanglewood concerts do not begin with the playing of the National Anthem and they fly a small flag in the big shed but not in the small theatre. Perhaps musicians are not as patriotic as baseball fans whose games always start with the singing of the National Anthem.

Maybe it is all a small matter but it is over matters such as this that the nations of the Earth are on the verge of war. Nationalism is not easy to define in this era; it is so different in different places. The proliferation of nations has many causes and becomes possible once the stronger power that holds a people together has lost its potency. Sometimes the thread of nationalism is no more than language, the association of a people by their mode of speech. Sometimes, it is historic memory, a nostalgia for a previous condition of relationships.

In Africa, for instance, it is difficult to tie nations together either linguistically or historically. In fact, many tribes hated each other and where cannibalism prevailed, they ate each other. Nevertheless today, they manifest an intense nationalism which represents a negative response to European colonialism. But anti-colonialism is not enough to provide an intense nationalism. And an example of modern nationalism is Israel to which men and women, boys and girls give their lives freely.

The Israeli Army includes women in many ranks and there Europeans labor in the desert not for themselves but for a nation which came into existence as such as recently as 1948. Israel is a startling example of nationalistic intensity. On the other hand, Red China is an Empire and a Cantonese remains a Cantonese and thinks in terms of his people — the Cantonese.

The trend in the late Nineteenth and early Twentieth centuries was away from nationalism toward universalism. Great Britain has through-out favored some form of internationalism because there have been so many components of the British Empire and of the Commonwealth of Nations that nationalism could only mean anti-British. Since the time of Woodrow Wilson, the United States has moved in the direction of internationalism, perhaps as a means for establishing a method for shifting responsibility for the smaller and weaker countries upon some international body. Although this country did not join the League of Nations which we had initiated, we did join the United Nations to which we have devoted ourselves so ardently that we have actually made sacrifices of sovereignty to strengthen the United Nations. The Korean War is one example of that and our financial support of every activity of the United Nations is another.

It has been part of the trend toward universalism which has lessened interest in patriotic nationalism in this country — but times are changing. More and more young people have come to reject the intellectual mores of the 1920's and 1930's. They are not bound by the shibboleth of internationalism. They may, in time, wave a flag. The pendulum does swing.

'Colic' Is More Often

Myth Than Affliction

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Is "colic" real or "fancy and fiction"?
Dr. F. M. Smith of St. Joseph's Hospital in Thibodaux, La., raises these questions:
How is it that the diagnosis of "colic" is frequently made in private practice when it is conspicuously absent from the thousands of case histories that are filed each year in great institutions such as the Charity Hospital of New Orleans?

And how is it that "colic" never appears in the newborn nursery of a hospital despite its prompt appearance almost immediately after the child's arrival at home? Especially if the baby is a first-born?

Not one to dodge an issue, Dr. Smith concludes that "colic" is high on the list of the "fancy and fiction" that circulates with regard to "well baby care of the newborn infant." For, he insists, there are few errors of such magnitude as that which holds that "colic is a specific disease entity, requiring special treatment and special medication."

What then is this condition that's called "colic" by the disturbed parent at the other end of the private practitioner's telephone? Here are some of Dr. Smith's knowledgeable explanations:

Parental panic due to lack of preparation for their responsibilities. Led to expect a "restful, lovable, sleeping angel" and/or a "bundle of joy," they find themselves joint proprietors of a "crying, straining, struggling, soiled, wet, trembling, hiccuping, bundle of flesh."

Emotionally unprepared for the personal sacrifices required for their infant's survival, they cry wolf too often when the shadow they see is a neighbor's pussy cat or pet dog.

Insecure in their grasp of "the day-to-day mechanics of caring for an infant," the inexperienced are apt to misinterpret the numerous variations of infant cries. The lusty cry of the baby who is hungry or soiled, the cry of discomfort from tight clothing, the lonesome cry to attract human companionship, the cry of insecurity as an invitation to cuddling.

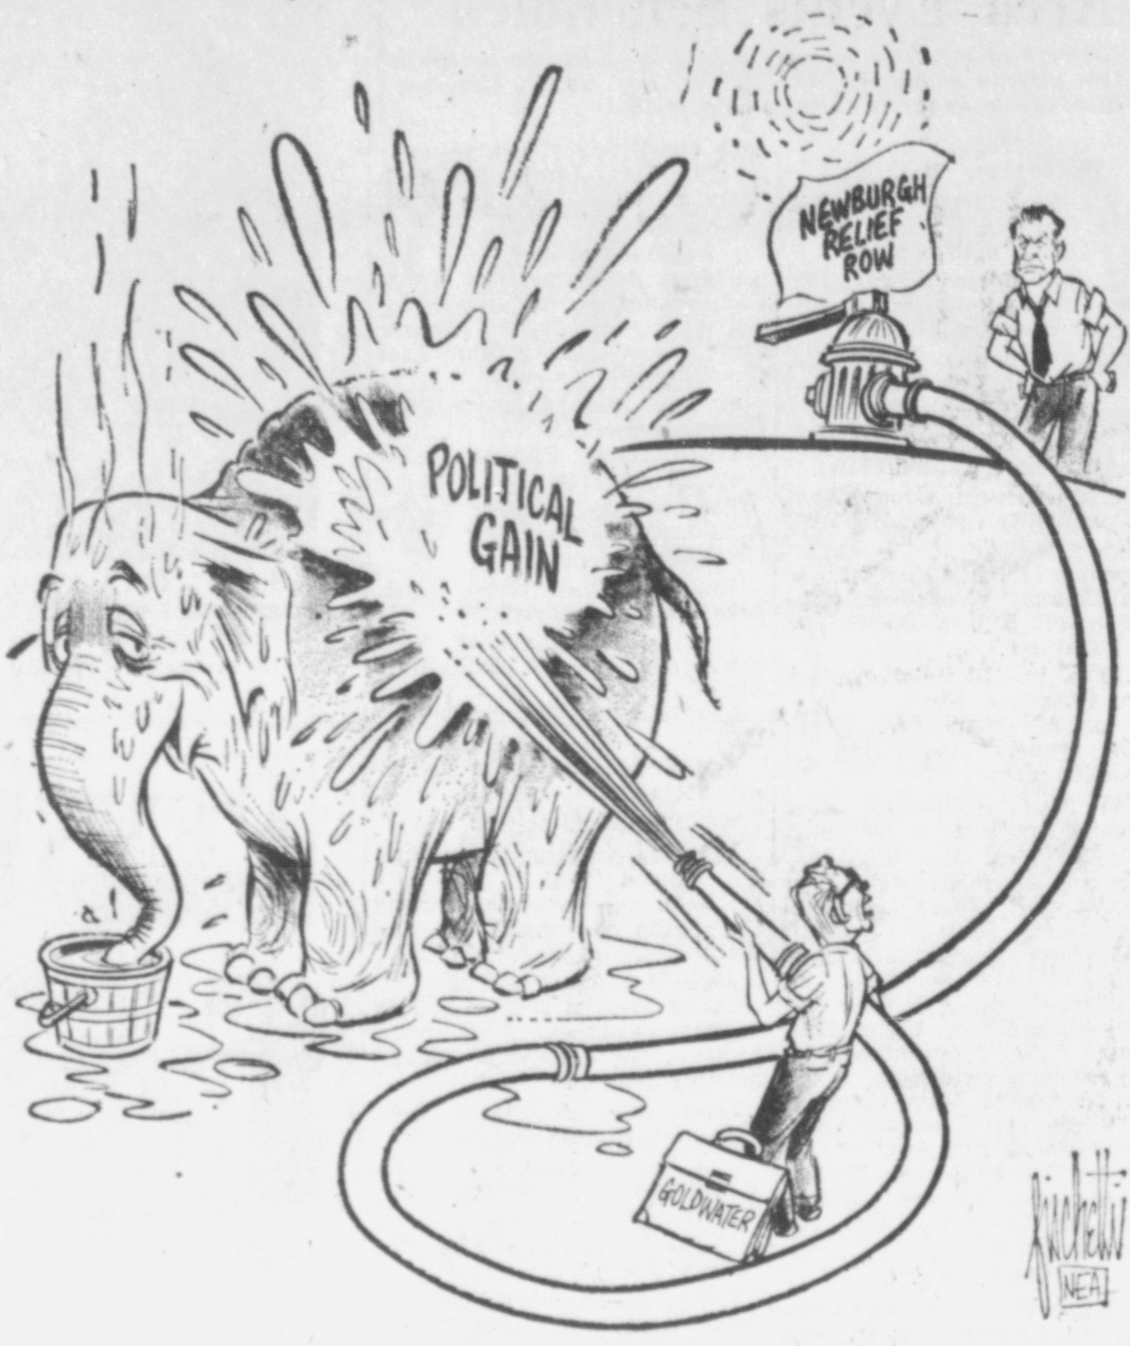

In Dr. Smith's opinion, it takes time and experience to understand the infant's piercing attempts to communicate. And, until this understanding is achieved, the parents of the first-born may be "easy preys to the recurring suggestions from relatives and friends" that their child has "the colic."

Once the diagnosis of "colic" is accepted, the next step is to seek a bottle of "colic medicine." And, too often, it has been Dr. Smith's experience, the harassed physician at the other end of the telephone encourages this error.

The lesson from Dr. Smith's sermon? "Let's do away with infant 'colic,'" he urges. If tender loving care and attention to creature comforts won't soothe the crying baby, better seek an explanation that's more reasonable than an almost meaningless word label.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Equally important as the backing which the American people will give to President Kennedy's new plans for dealing with Russia on the Berlin and East German situations is the support which the United States may expect from its allies. Most important of all is the United Kingdom of Great Britain.

Some justifiable suspicions exist that the British won't go all the way with the Americans in defying the Russians, even though Britain is our best ally. Britain differs with the United States on Red China and Nationalist China policies. The British seem eager to trade with the Russians, to promote summit and other conferences with the Russians when American foreign policy makers have found that such talks produce little or nothing constructive.

THE BRITISH SEEM TOO WILLING to write off South-east Asia and make a deal with the Russians in the futile 14-nation conference on Laos in Geneva. When, at the last Southeast Asia Treaty conference, it was urged that a military stand be made against the Communists in Laos, the British offered only token forces.

Principal reason given for British desires to coexist peacefully with the Russians is that the British Isles can be wiped off the map with a dozen nuclear warhead intercontinental missiles. There is no future in that kind of war.

ALSO, ENGLAND HAS COME UPON hard times. The trouble is not unemployment—which plagues the United States. It is international trade, balance of payments difficulty.

To conserve sterling reserves, to increase revenues and cut government expenses, Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd has just presented the House of Commons with a new austerity program. It is so sweeping in nature that it makes the piddling sacrifices called for by President Kennedy look like a Christmas bonus.

WHAT THE KENNEDY administration is counting on heavily in its promise for a 1963 balanced budget is an increase in gross national product over the next two years, averaging around $10 billion a quarter.

GNP for the second quarter of calendar year 1961 was $14 billion over the first quarter, making the annual GNP rate $315 billion as of June 30. Two years from now, at a $40 billion annual increase, it would be $395 billion.

This obviously would generate an annual increase in tax receipts of from $3 billion to $4 billion and create a budget surplus.

There is an idea kicking around among Washington economists that with continued business improvement, total demand for goods will be raised enough to increase employment. Unemployment would then be reduced and a real budget surplus would develop.

If this latent surplus is not absorbed by continued increases in national defense spending, then the way will be paved for a tax reduction.

The catch here is that government spending increases tend to stick. And even if the huffing and puffing over the Berlin crisis ends this year in negotiations and a peaceful settlement instead of a shooting war, it may still be difficult to get government appropriations cut back again.

MANY OF THE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN and anti-Kennedy Democrats reacted to the Kennedy speech by supporting the increased defense expenditures, but saying this should be offset by cutting back on other government spending.

But in some cases this is an excuse for opposing Kennedy legislative programs they are really fighting for other reasons. Federal aid to education is a prime example.

An expanding economy and high economic growth rate give the Kennedy administration one of its best arguments for saying that many of the things it wants to do can be done because the country can afford them without raising taxes.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—On the lucrative but wholly synthetic topic of freedom in the meaning signified by the titles of Freedom House and Freedom Riders I am inspired by the common experience of Americans these days to say that freedom has been superseded by permission of the national Government and its hoodlum accomplices of the AFL-CIO. Freedom does not exist.

The total abrogation of freedom was achieved by Congress and illiterate state legislatures in the years recently prior to 1913 when the income tax amendment, the Sixteenth, was adopted. This was a very popular act of lunacy. People are overwhelmingly greedy and reckless and their ignorance of the deeper meanings of emotional issues, such as now, the question of war with Soviet Russia, cannot be exaggerated. They wanted to rob the Vanderbilts. The grotesque submission of many generations to the idiotic proposition of the Declaration, that the opinions of mankind deserve a "decent respect," is an example of this pathetic truth.

Mankind has thousands of opinions on every conceivable subject at all times. The several United States will throw a man into prison and damn him to everlasting scorn for maintaining an opinion, which is held by millions elsewhere, that polygamy is wise, hygienic and moral. One may shoot craps in Nevada but may be sent to jail in most other states for shooting craps or even passing a policy slip from hand to hand while stock exchanges flagrantly grind out quotations and odds in luxurious booths.

One may bet on horses at tracks licensed by state authority where the State becomes a controlling partner in the racket through a slice off the top. But, for placing the same bet in a horse room, the same solid citizen may be reduced to squalid ignominy and robbed of his law.

In religion Man is so badly confused that he is afraid even to argue the subject. The situations are endlessly complex and humiliating to the proposition that the opinions of mankind deserve any respect at all.

The Founding Fathers meant of course that Mankind obviously must agree with their own political idea even though millions notably the English, did not.

Although the First Amendment is acclaimed in appalling misconceptions, this mild little phrase of English prose actually connotes none of the idiotic meanings which American Mankind, including Press and Radio, attributes to it. The First says merely that Congress may pass no law "respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." This has been construed that nobody shall express or even harbor disrespect for anyone's religion however silly it may seem to him; and that whosoever gives

McCloy and Stevenson: 2 Men on Quiet Missions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

IN EUROPE, Aug. 1.—Oddly enough, whenever "quiet diplomacy" gets going, there is more hope for peace than from all the public statements, speeches and propaganda exchanges put together.

Two episodes in the realm of "quiet diplomacy" are attracting worldwide attention.

First, John McCloy went to Moscow primarily to discuss, on behalf of the United States government, the vague and ponderous subject of arrangements for more international conferences on disarmament. But he was suddenly invited by Soviet Premier Khrushchev to visit him at his Black Sea vacation home, and seems to have been warmly entertained. In the midst of this, Mr. McCloy was given a personal message for President Kennedy about the Berlin crisis. The Soviet ruler brushed aside his own speeches and threats about Berlin, and, in effect, exclaimed: "Why all the war talk, anyhow?"

Second, Adlai Stevenson, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, who happened to be in Europe last week in a roving mission, was invited by President de Gaulle to come to Paris to confer on the Bizerte issue. Under instructions from the Department of State, for several days he discussed the situation in Tunisia with the French Foreign Minister, Couve de Murville, one of the ablest diplomats of the West. On his return to the United States today, Mr. Stevenson said it should be possible for France and Tunisia "to arrange for quick talks and agreement to pull back forces of both sides to their preflight positions," thus paving the way for a speedy settlement of the Bizerte dispute.

Talk Means Hope

As long as there is talk in critical situations, there is always hope, though a clearing of air isn't helped by public demonstrations of hostility or by threatening speeches. So, while Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. McCloy talked intimately and the personal message that the Soviet Premier gave has been transmitted now to President Kennedy, it would be a mistake to assume that a basis for settlement has been reached.

The significance in all this lies rather in the fact that private talks are being held. This means that the art of reconciliation is being employed in what is sometimes called a search for "compromise," but in reality it can turn out to be a means for the abandonment of rigid positions previously held by both sides. The trouble with having so many public propaganda statements in a crisis is that this makes face-saving devices difficult to work out.

Yet the Berlin issue may be simpler than it appears. Lord Home, the British Foreign Secretary, has stated to a British television audience that there are three essential points as a possible basis for negotiation. He named these as the right of West Berlin to determine its own future, the right of Allied troops to be in Berlin and the right of uninterrupted access to the city. He declared: "We are willing and ready to talk and negotiate on this question."

The preliminaries in the discussion will soon be under way as the foreign secretaries of the United States, Britain and France start their conference this week in Paris. Maybe Mr. Khrushchev himself is pondering coincidentally a formula of negotiation.

What About Moscow?

But, in the meantime, what has been happening in Moscow? While Ambassador Stevenson was striving in Paris to work out with the French government some diplomatic means to bring about direct negotiations with the Tunisian government over the situation in Bizerte, a rather encouraging thing occurred in the Soviet capital. It was announced there that diplomatic representatives of nine African countries — Tunisia, the United Arab Republic, Ghana, Guinea, Morocco, Surin, Mali, the Somali Republic and Ethiopia — were received by Premier Khrushchev for a discussion of the Tunisian problem.

Although he had a chance to muddy the waters, the Soviet Premier chose to avoid any embarrassing move. Instead, though expressing sympathy with the Tunisians over their losses at Bizerte, he told the nine African representatives that there was no need for the Soviet Union to make any broad statement on the Bizerte problem since the shooting had ceased and the matter was under negotiation.

Pledge Isn't Difficult

But, in the meantime, what has been happening in Moscow? While Ambassador Stevenson was striving in Paris to work out with the French government some diplomatic means to bring about direct negotiations with the Tunisian government over the situation in Bizerte, a rather encouraging thing occurred in the Soviet capital. It was announced there that diplomatic representatives of nine African countries — Tunisia, the United Arab Republic, Ghana, Guinea, Morocco, Surin, Mali, the Somali Republic and Ethiopia — were received by Premier Khrushchev for a discussion of the Tunisian problem.

Particularly significant, however, is the statement made by the Tunisian representative at the U. N., who told a meeting of the Afro-Asian group Monday night in New York that his government is ready to discuss a time and place for negotiations with France if France concedes "the principle of eventual evacuation" of Bizerte. This would not seem to be difficult for Paris to do, since a pledge to that effect already has been proclaimed by the French government. So the way is open to more talk and more "quiet diplomacy" over Tunisia as well as Berlin.

Macmillan Tells Britain:

Joining Common Market Is Vital In Meeting Communism Challenge

Kingston C of C

the move toward joint sponsorship of the pageant which has been operated successfully by them for three years. The purpose of the move was to make this major annual event a community project.

The Chamber board also voted to order 5,000 copies of a general information brochure. During the past year, 4,500 copies of the Kingston brochure were distributed to answer individual requests for area information by mail or to visitors stopping in at the Chamber office.

The personnel of the Rondout Harbor Improvement Committee will be announced as soon as acceptances have been received. This committee will work with officials of the City of Kingston as well as the Towns of Esopus and Ulster to bring about the improvement and further development of the entire tidalwater portion of the Rondout Creek from the Hudson River to the Eddyville Falls. As plans are developed the support of all interested groups and citizens will be solicited.

The next regular meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on September 12.

By ANTHONY WHITE

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today declared Britain must abandon its traditional isolation and unite with the European Common Market to face the challenge of communism.

"Our right place is in the vanguard of the movement toward the greater unity of the free world," he told the House of Commons. "We can lead better from within than from outside. I am persuaded we ought to try."

Opens Two Day Debate

Macmillan's speech marked the opening of a two-day debate on the British decision, announced last Monday, to apply for membership of the six nation Common Market.

Macmillan noted that Britain had long entertained a tradition of isolation and suspicion of foreigners.

"Nevertheless," he went on, "it is worth recalling that in every period when the world has been in danger from a tyrant or aggression, Britain has abandoned isolationism."

Despite opposition from a number of the ruling Conservatives as well as many Laborites, the trend on both sides of the House was clearly in favor of the principle of British membership in the European Economic Community.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was expected to squeeze out a vote of approval at the end of the two-day wrangle.

The way will then be clear for Macmillan's government to start negotiations with the Common Market members—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The British will demand tariff concessions for their Commonwealth partners whose economies are dependent on the British market and possibly exemption from the trend toward political unity that is slowly developing within the Continental Six.

To Ask Guarantees

In his announcement Monday that Britain would seek membership in the EEC, Macmillan stressed he would require guarantees to protect Commonwealth trade and that the other Commonwealth governments would be consulted fully before Britain entered the continental group.

Macmillan's pledge to safeguard Commonwealth trade reportedly brought a number of reluctant Conservatives around to his side. At least 47 Conservative dissidents have put themselves on record against joining the market.

The Labor party's parliamentary caucus instructed its members to abstain on the government motion itself but to vote for a Labor amendment demanding that no firm step into the Common Market be taken before agreement is obtained from a conference of Commonwealth prime ministers and Britain's partners in the seven-nation European Free Trade Association.

The Labor amendment was drawn to lure Conservative dissidents, and a full-scale rebellion could conceivably wipe out Macmillan's nominal majority of more than 100 votes, but the amendment through and force the government to resign.

Isabelle Byman's Concert High Spot of Music Season

One of the annual musical high spots of the Woodstock Summer season takes place Saturday night, when Woodstock's renowned pianist, Isabelle Byman, will be featured artist in the third Saturday Night Recital of the season at the Maverick Concert Hall at 8:30 p. m.

Isabelle Byman has been an outstanding piano virtuoso since her early years. At the age of 13, she appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. At 16 she entered the Juilliard Graduate School on a scholarship where she studied with Olga Samaraoff Stokowski. She continued on a fellowship at Juilliard for six consecutive years.

She made her debut at the age of 18 with the New York Philharmonic in Carnegie Hall and subsequently appeared as soloist with most of the major orchestras in the country including the Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and others, under the batons of Stokowski, Rodzinski, Smallens, Barzin and many others.

Pros and Cons

On Hearing for Streamside Site

A strong denunciation by Dr. Paul Perlman galvanized the almost unanimous opposition to the proposed Ulster Homes housing project at the Planning Board's public hearing Monday night.

Dr. Perlman, one of the many outspoken opponents of the project known as Streamside Terrace, said:

"I would like to see this project rejected as it is. It's bad enough from a health standpoint, a little worse from the aesthetic standpoint. I wouldn't want to live by it."

The fact of the matter is that Dr. Perlman owns property directly across the road and creek from the proposed housing project. Other outspoken opponents were Evelyn Crawford, who questioned seriously the advisability of placing 12 or 13 units in such limited area. Karl Siegel, Harry Gordon, Lawrence G. Casey, Fred Freitag, Charles J. Tiano and others. Mrs. Crawford said the erecting of 13 units on a 5 1/2 acre lot was too many to meet the maximum concept regarding proper sanitation. Pointing out that a street already had been built through the middle of the project and the lots laid out, Mrs. Crawford said it seemed to her that all the discussion at the hearing was like "locking the stable door after the horse had been stolen."

Heaviest attack on the proposed project was generated by the taxpayers' concern that there would be inadequate sewage disposal and definite menace to health. The aesthetic viewpoint with relation to the area was also raised several times during the lively discussion.

Traffic Problem

Charles J. Tiano raised the question of compounding the traffic pattern at Sully's bridge and the apparent disregard for public convenience. He said the road between Sully's bridge and Tinker Street had been torn up on several occasions and was in a bad state of repair for several months. He said there had been a great deal of agitation about saving trees in Woodstock, but not a voice had been raised when one of the beauty spots in the township was being denuded to make for the project.

The question of septic tanks and leech fields occupied a great portion of the discussion, but

Beaten Woman Is Of Kingston, She Tells Falls Police

HIGHLAND FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A partly nude woman who had been severely beaten was found lying in the street here early today.

Police said she managed to tell them her name was Ariene DeLoach of Hasbrouck Ave., Kingston, and then lapsed into unconsciousness.

Kingston police said today that a woman known there as Ariene DeLoach, 43, had given different addresses within the past few years. Among them were two on Hasbrouck Avenue, one on Abel and one on Green Street. They had no message to indicate that the woman above was the same person. The one booked in Kingston had been in minor trouble with the police on several occasions.

She was taken to Cornwall Hospital in nearby Cornwall, where her condition was reported fair. She was cut and bruised about the head and face.

Police said they believed the woman was beaten in some other location and then dumped out of an automobile here. She was nude from the waist up and appeared to be between 30 and 40 years old. Her pocketbook, shoes, and part of her clothing were missing.

Highland Falls police called in the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the State Police to help in the case.

The final abolition was given by Msgr. Ostermann assisted by Father Murray. Bearers were James Bissonetti, Daniel Eichert, Donald Scism, Louis Sapp, Alfred Wolfersheim and Clarence Maines.

Extensive Tours

She has made many recital tours throughout the United States and Canada. Critics have acclaimed her work with such glowing comments as "remarkable musical intelligence," "dexterity and poetic insight," "power and brilliance," "dazzling technique," "purity, limpidity, and warmth of tone."

Mrs. Byman has performed many contemporary works (including many first performances) and has appeared in an all-Ives program at the National Art Gallery in Washington, D. C. She has recorded Debussy for Victor and Bartok, Kabalevsky, and Ben-Haim on stereotape for Stereo Age Recording Company. The program Saturday night will include: Sonata in D Major by Haydn; Sonata in F Minor, by Brahms; Passacaglia by Copland; The White Peacock, by Griffes; and La Campanella by Liszt-Busoni.

there appeared to be almost unanimous feeling that the plans as presented would be inadequate.

Attorney John Egan, who represented Ulster Homes, the builders, said he felt no refutation was required to the many objections raised during the meeting. He said it was reasonable to subdivide the area as proposed and that the sewage disposal facilities met the requirements of the Ulster County Board of Health.

Benjamin L. Webster, who served as chairman of the meeting, declined to answer several direct questions on the grounds that they were not properly part of the proceedings.

In a statement seeking to clarify the position of the Planning Board, Attorney Martin F. Comeau said the hearing was designed to help the board make a decision for or against the sub-division and was not intended to debate the merits of the proposal. He said the board had been able to answer some questions but not all of them. The meeting, he added, had provided the forum for public opinion and that this method would bear fruit in the future.

Mellenville Man Shot to Death Over Signing

MELLENVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Henry Overby, 43, was shot to death in an argument over who should have signed a paper releasing his sister from Hudson River State Hospital at Poughkeepsie, State Police report.

Alfred Major, 49, was charged with first-degree murder in the shotgun slaying. He was held in Columbia County jail for action of County Court.

Major contended he should have signed the release for Overby's sister, Mary, since he was living with her, State Police said. She was released from the hospital in June.

The shooting occurred after a visit Tuesday by a hospital representative to the house where the shared in this hamlet four miles north of Hudson.

"It's God's will," Major told state troopers.

New Deadline Aug. 29

The new deadline date, as announced by Mayor Edwin F. Radel is Aug. 29, by which time, he noted, Common Council action must be recorded with the State Water Pollution and Control Board, and the federal department. Such proposed action is due for consideration at the recessed meeting.

Mayor Radel proposed legislation on extension of time for the city and May Associates to complete a comprehensive plan. The first deadline date was Aug. 13 and it was extended to Sept. 30. The extension was asked because of the need for compiling certain census data, and because of other delays.

The local law dealing with residency requirements for appointments to the police force, permits non-resident men to apply for civil service tests, but in the event that action on the within 90 days of appointment. The other local law provides in general, for a mileage increase of three cents a mile for city employees who use their own cars on duty. Only a few such employees are involved, such as the plumbing inspector and sealer of weights and measures.

Would Go on Record

Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, who has proposed a study of abandoned downtown lime caves for fallout shelter use, moved that Mayor Radel be asked to contact the Secretary of Defense at Washington, to get the city on record as an applicant for federal aid, in the event that action on a shelter is advised by local and state civil defense heads, and the council.

Polling places in all of the 13 wards remained the same as in 1960 with the exception of those in the Sixth Ward, First District, which is now to be in a building owned by Ruth Clair, 71 Chambers Street; instead of School No. 3; Second Ward, First District, which is to be the William S. Keyser building, 167 Tremper Avenue, instead of School No. 6, and 12th Ward, Second District, which is to be the Francis J. Oulton garage, 56 Emerson Street, instead of School No. 7. A petition signed by some 60 residents of the 12th Ward opposing construction of a multiple dwelling in the area of Grand View Avenue, Main Street and Lounsbury Place, was filed, and Alderman John P. Heitzman (D) 12th Ward, proposed a zoning law amendment.

It asked that no multiple dwellings such as boarding or lodging houses, apartments or tenement houses, hotels, boarding schools or dormitories, be permitted in such areas, and was referred to the laws and rules committee.

No mention was made of a developing company or realtor said to be interested in building an apartment in the area mentioned, but it was indicated that residents of the ward had heard of plans for one on a cleared site.

Lack Sewer Connections

Alderman Samuel J. Perry (R) Fifth Ward, minority council leader, reported some six or eight residents along North Street lacked connection with the new Fifth Ward sewer facility, and advised that something be done about it. They could be seriously blocked from any sewer facility when a low-land and swamp section beyond them is filled with silt from dredging in the Hudson, he said. Alderman Hastings was concerned with blacktopping of a sidewalk at the High School, which he felt could become dangerous under certain weather conditions, and he advised that the education board "should be alerted" to such danger.

Gets Jail Term

Gerald Sauters, 50, of Jansen Avenue, who was arrested July 20 on a third degree assault charge, was sentenced in city court today. Judge Aaron E. Klein imposed 10 days in jail which had been served, and placed him on probation. The complainant was listed as Ida Sauters, police said.

Navy Vet Faces Parking Problem, May Quit School

CHICAGO (AP)—Donald Bruns, a paraplegic Navy veteran who drives his car about 45 miles daily to the Loop to attend classes at a broadcasting school, may have to quit—unless he can find a place to park his car.

Bruns, who is learning to be a radio announcer, has to find a parking place in the block where the school is located. He can't go to school if he has to park across the street from the school, or one or two blocks away. He can't get over curbs in his wheel chair.

Bruns, who is 26, married and the father of a son and daughter, has been parking his car in a garage in the same block as the school for five weeks.

But, he said, the garage manager told him Tuesday he couldn't leave it there any more because the special hand controls for paraplegics constitute a special risk. He was told that a garage attendant might push the wrong knob and smash another car.

"It's not true that hand controls make a car dangerous," Bruns said. "My car operates like any other car, except that it has some extra equipment. My wife drives it all the time."

Bruns has been a paraplegic since 1955 when he was in a truck accident in the Navy. He lives in suburban Cary, where he is assistant director of civil defense and for the last two years was director of the community's Red Cross fund drive.

Keating Suggests New Program for U.S. Agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., today urged Congress to "blow the whistle" on what he terms the worn out ideas of the nation's present farm programs.

He said farmer William T. Smith of Big Flats, N.Y., who bought a Cadillac with his feed-grain subsidy, dramatized the shortcomings of present law and the need for new proposals.

In a prepared Senate speech, Keating called for creation of a House-Senate study commission to "chart a new direction for our nation's agriculture."

"The best thing that can come out of Mr. Smith's protest would be a re-evaluation and rethinking of our farm policies," Keating said.

He said the government has an obligation to help relatively low-income farmers temporarily if they fail to make an adequate living.

He said many persons think that Smith's protest of the feed grain program is too dramatic. But Smith, Keating added, has focused more attention than any other person on the weaknesses of the farm program.

"There is no justification for the excessive benefits to already wealthy men which are too often permitted under these programs," Keating added.

Warning Is Given After Rabid Bats Bite 2 Children

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state health commissioner, reporting that two children were bitten by rabid bats in Upstate New York last week, has renewed his warning against handling bats.

The commissioner, Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, said Tuesday a six-month-old infant at Geneva and a three-year-old girl in Canastota were bitten.

"This again points up the need for persons to avoid handling bats, particularly those that are on the ground or in any way act abnormal. If bitten, immediately notify your physician, who will decide whether you should be given anti-rabies treatment," Hilleboe said.

Of 12 reported cases of humans bitten by rabid bats, Hilleboe said, five have occurred this year. None has resulted in death.

Two Girls Drown

LEONARDSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Two girls who waded into deep water of the Unadilla River were drowned Tuesday night, firemen said.

They were Velma A. Crumb, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Crumb of the Madison County village of Leonardsville, and Debrah Dye, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dye of nearby Brookfield.

A boy said he saw the girls in difficulty and ran to a house to summon aid. The bodies were recovered in about eight feet of water.

A Berlin, Washington Comparison

German City Divided by 25-Mile Line That Halves Streets, Homes

EDITOR'S NOTE — A wandering line that even splits houses in two is the porous Iron Curtain that separates East from West in the crisis city of Berlin. In this second of a series of articles, AP correspondent Carl Hartman explains the geography of the situation and how it adds to the crisis.

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Try to imagine the city of Washington split in two, with the Capitol in Communist hands and the White House held by the West.

Now try to imagine all the surrounding states east of the Mississippi River also under a Communist satellite government, but with the West still free. Temporary national capital — Columbia, Mo.

If you can get a situation like that clearly in mind, you've come a long way toward understanding what the situation in Berlin looks like on the ground.

Greater Berlin is actually a good deal bigger than Washington—it includes about five times the area and population of the District of Columbia.

Border Meanders

The city is split, not by anything so straight as Pennsylvania Avenue, but by a border that meanders some 25 miles through the middle of town, roughly from northwest to southwest, in some places it goes right down the center of once-busy streets. Elsewhere it leaves sidewalks on one side of the line and house doors on the other. There are a few places where it actually splits houses in half.

One of the oddest things about Berlin's little Iron Curtain is that it is so porous. Anyone can go back and forth by foot, car, subway or elevated train. Citizens of West Germany are supposed to get a special pass, but this is quickly given and Communist police rarely ask to see it.

Iron Curtain Strong

It's a very different story if you try to leave Berlin and visit the surrounding German countryside. For this, special permission is required by the East German Communist authorities, and it is not so easy to get. That Iron Curtain is not so porous.

In a crisis, the Communists might seal off East Berlin from West Berlin, almost as effectively as they have sealed off Berlin from the rest of Germany. It is their legal right to stay in Berlin and have access to it that the Western powers have chosen to defend.

How Odd Fix Came

"How did Berlin get into this odd fix?"

In 1944, when the allies of World War II were advancing toward Germany's borders, they got together in London and decided how they were going to rule the country when they reached it. They divided Germany into occupation zones.

Berlin was to be in the middle of the Soviet occupation zone. But since the allies were to rule the country jointly they devised a special setup for the capital. Each occupying power got an occupation sector within the city itself, but all were to work together. This scheme broke down in the conflicts among the allies after war ended.

West Germany — the British, French and American occupation zones — became the Federal Republic of Germany with its capital at Bonn, a little university town on the Rhine. Western troops stayed on as allies.

East Germany — the Soviet occupation zone — became the "German Democratic Republic," with its capital in East Berlin. The Soviets also continued to maintain their troops.

Reds Take Over

The Federal Republic and its allies refused to have anything to do with the Soviet satellite, officially. The rest of the world, except for the Communist bloc, followed suit. Nevertheless, East German communist officials took over more and more authority. They came to control all land and water routes to West Berlin, so far as German traffic was concerned.

The air lanes were all that remained in allied hands. Only small amounts of Western road and rail traffic, most of its military, continued to be checked through to Berlin by the Russians. Even official American trains were drawn by East German locomotives.

Soviet Does Checking

But when an official U.S. car drew up to the Iron Curtain border station at Helmstedt, on its way to Berlin, there was still a Soviet soldier on hand — not an East German — to check its papers. That Soviet soldier symbolized Moscow's acceptance of Western rights in Berlin. When he waved the car on to the highway, he was saying in effect: "Go ahead — Moscow is standing by your right to go to Berlin."

The disappearance of this vestige of four-power rule is threatened by the Soviet promise to sign a peace treaty with its East German satellite before end of 1961. Such a treaty would withdraw the Soviet soldiers at Helmstedt and put an East German in their places, representing a government the United States doesn't recognize.

Would Washington let the driver of the official American car show his papers to the East German? Would the East German shoot if he didn't? Would the American shoot back?

Soviet officers might also be withdrawn from the Air Safety Center. The East Germans already have published a decree calling on all planes entering their territory to report to another center run by themselves. Would they fire on a Western plane if it refused?

Road Work Halts To Permit Sleep In Utica Suburb

NEW HARTFORD, N.Y. (AP)—

The wheels of progress—in the form of monster road-building equipment that can be heard a mile away—will be halted seven hours a night so that residents of this Utica suburb can get some sleep.

The Dwight M. Winkelman Construction Co. of Syracuse agreed Tuesday night to discontinue around-the-clock operations on a behind-schedule arterial highway project in favor of a 5 a.m.-to-10 p.m. schedule, beginning Monday.

Last Monday night, police arrested four of the firm's heavy-equipment operators for violating an anti-noise ordinance.

A company official said, however, that 30 men will lose their jobs when the early shift is discontinued. The joint city-state project has a $4 million payroll, he told a town meeting.

Advices Gotham Study New Way Of Fixing Streets

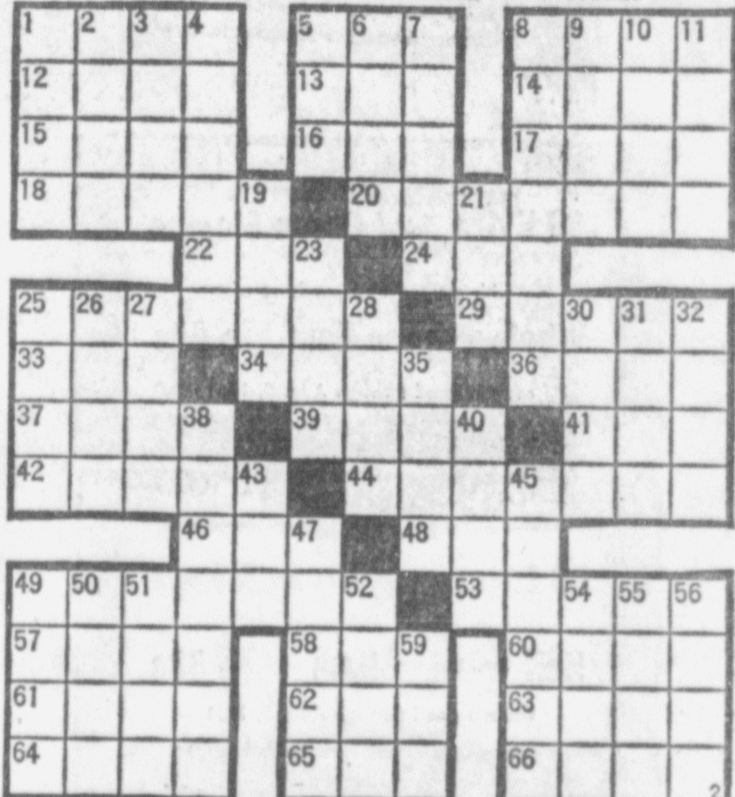

NEW YORK (AP) — A new method of street resurfacing used successfully in Binghamton should be studied by New York City agencies, says a city official.

Manhattan Borough Works Commissioner John T. Carroll studied the new type of asphalt at the request of Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Carroll advised the mayor that the asphalt was used in resurfacing permanent roadways in Binghamton at 89 cents a square yard. This compares with a cost of about $6-$7 a square yard in methods used here, he said Tuesday.

An Observation On Growing Old, Retirement Quiz

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a great industry being built up that says you can't be happy if you retire after 65.

There is a great industry being built up that says you can't be happy if you retire before you are 65.

There is a great industry being built up that says it isn't worthwhile to retire at all. It is better to go on as before.

Well, this just may or may not happen to be true. So far as I know, there is no medical evidence that proves any human being who keeps his enthusiasm for living and new or old enjoyments dies younger by quitting a steady job at 55 rather than 65.

What is true is that in most circumstances no doctor can assay your endurance.

Unless you have a known terminal disease an honest physician would have to admit, as any honest physician did 3,000 years ago, that your longevity would have to be as much a mystery to you as his is to him.

Weary Ones Should Quit

It has been my observation that people who have performed an endeavor ably for a long period of time, if they weary of it, survive longer if they relinquish it rather than if they try to continue their clutch of it.

They must find a different reach. There comes a time when they must let go of what they have held, and grasp another thing.

Change is a tremendous medicine at any age.

There are those who say that age cannot stand a change of medicine or survive a new viewpoint.

My observation has been that the elderly can well sustain any change except a change of weight.

Those who retire early do not perish from nonperformance. Their appetite endures, they refresh themselves by new attempts.

Science has its purposes, but it also has its frustrations.

I recall the sad face of a pioneer doctor in the field of gerontology—the study of old age. He worried himself to death in his 60s. I must suppose, in an attempt to figure how people could live longer.

My mother, who got only through the third grade in Ireland before she came over here and bore five children, never had time to study gerontology. She'll be 74 this year.

"Sometimes I feel like I ought to let go, and give this old world a rest," she says placidly. She is 60-70 pounds above her arrival weight, and America has been for her just one child and a calorie after another.

All her five children—the silver cord remains untarnished and unbroken—deny her this choice. They all feel the need of her unity, now as when young.

"But sometimes I get so tired," mother says. "I'd like to retire. I'd just like to quit."

There are plenty of statistics to show—I hope—that men who retire younger live longer than those who don't. It's good for them.

But not for mothers. Mothers can't retire. They can't quit, can they? A mother's best pension is the reward of the need of her eternal presentment.

Jolls Probe Report Expected From Jury

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—An Erie County grand jury was expected to report its findings today in the kidnap-drowning of little Andy Ashley, whose bound body was pulled from a park lake June 25.

The jury has heard almost 40 witnesses in closed testimony, including Police Commissioner Frank Felice. Felice claimed that Chyrel Jolls, a 15-year-old schoolgirl, admitted binding the boy's hands and feet and leaving him at the edge of the lake June 23.

Chyrel has repeatedly denied drowning the three-year-old youngster. She has been undergoing psychiatric tests.

The girl had been charged with kidnapping five-year-old Richard Edgington the day before the Ashley slaying. The Edgington boy was found unharmed after he was left bound and gagged at a railroad embankment.

Far Reaching Changes Are Coming

State Revising School Aid So All in Districts to Help Pay

Editors note: This is the first of two Associated Press articles on the history, current status and expected developments in public-school financing, now one of the most complicated and controversial areas of state government.

By ROBERT T. GRAY

"The Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a system of free common schools, wherein all the children of this state may be educated."

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's program of aid to local, public education faces another in a series of historical and far-reaching changes that have spanned three centuries.

In revising its own program, the state also is expected to establish the principle that all residents of a school district, not only the property-owners, should help raise the local share of school expenses.

This probably will be achieved through permissive legislation under which school districts would be allowed to federate and levy sales taxes or some other non-property taxes.

There undoubtedly will be a generous increase in state aid payments, which now reach $800 million a year of a total public-school cost of $2 billion. School districts raise practically all of their $1.2 billion share through property taxes.

The new state-aid plan probably will include a "cost-of-education" formula, under which state aid would go up automatically when school costs, as well as enrollments, climbed.

Drafting Program

The program is being drafted by a legislative committee created by the 1960 Legislature. The group is called the Diefendorf Committee after its chairman, Charles H. Diefendorf of Buffalo, a bank executive.

Recommendations of the committee will be submitted to the 1962 Legislature which will enact laws, probably amid extensive arguments.

The changes, and the arguments over them, will follow a tradition established when the earliest Dutch settlers in New York held that education was a matter of public concern.

Dutch Articles

The Articles for the Colonization and Trade of New Netherland, drawn in 1638, provided that:

"Each householder and inhabitant shall bear such tax and public charges as shall hereafter be considered proper for the maintenance of . . . schoolmasters and such, like necessary officers."

Tracts of land were set aside in new Dutch communities for school sites.

Progress toward universal, free education was steady, if slow.

A milestone was reached in April 1795 when the Legislature voted the state's first, direct appropriation for general, public education.

Previously, funds had gone to a specific school or teacher and the help was a community matter. The 1795 grant was to be added to local funds and used "for the purpose of encouraging and maintaining schools in several cities and towns."

$50,000 for 5 Years

The appropriation was $50,000 to be spent over five years. This $10,000 annual grant was the fiscal forbear of today's $800 million.

Each community had to raise by itself an amount equal to half the state appropriation. This established from the outset that education financing was to be a cooperative venture, not solely a state function.

But that initial aid program was short-lived. When the five years were up and the $50,000 spent, the lawmakers abandoned the plan rather than raise taxes.

State aid was continued, however, with a $100,000-a-year lottery that lasted until 1805, when a school fund was set up with revenue from sale of public lands. In 1836, the state received $4 million in distribution of a federal treasury surplus and invested the funds for school purposes.

New System in 1812

Another major step in education history was taken in 1812, when the Legislature established a system of common schools and agreed to match locally raised funds for support of education.

Despite the financing arrangements, however, communities suffered deficits.

To make up the deficits, parents were required to contribute according to the number of days of instruction their children had received. Needy parents were exempted.

This form of tuition, called rate bills, sparked bitter debate for decades.

In 1867, the rate bills were abolished in favor of complete, government support. The government, of course, obtained the money through taxes.

Eventually, the number of school-age children, the average attendance and the number of teachers became major standards for distribution of state aid.

In addition, the Legislature established a series of quotas under which districts were given state aid for specific purposes, such as vocational instruction.

Cumbersome Program

Finally, there were 25 such special aids distributed under more than 40 different formulas. These were cumbersome, difficult to administer, and the poorer districts complained they were unfair be-provide its pupils with an educational program that will at least equal standards set by the state. At the same time, districts must raise their share of the foundation program by levying a tax rate specified by the state.

If, with this tax rate, a district cannot raise its share, the state makes up the balance.

This approach was designed to equalize educational opportunities for all students, regardless of the wealth of their school district.

Sentence Suspended

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Viola Hairston, 20, received a suspended sentence on a charge of second-degree manslaughter in the death of her newborn son.

She was sentenced Tuesday after pleading guilty in County Court. Police said she placed the baby under her bed after an unassisted birth Jan. 13.

Stratton Charges No Need to Delay Reapportionment Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York legislative committee no longer has any excuse to delay public hearings on reapportionment, a Democratic congressman maintains.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., who may lose his congressional seat in the reapportionment, said Tuesday block-by-block census figures for New York City and Long Island now were available.

This, he said, refutes a claim by New York legislative leaders that reapportionment plans would have to wait until 1962 because the figures would not be available until September.

The statement was the latest in a series aimed at Gov. Rockefeller and state legislative leaders, all Republicans, whom Stratton claims are trying to gerrymander him out of his congressional seat next year.

New York will lose two house seats for the 1962 congressional elections because of national population changes.

Stratton maintained that the state Republicans hope to gain political advantage by holding up reapportionment until the very eve of the 1962 primary elections.

2 Optical Firms Are Indicted on Monopoly Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A federal grand jury Tuesday filed charges of monopoly and price-fixing against the world's two largest optical equipment manufacturers who issued emphatic denials.

Indicted were American Optical Co. of Southbridge, Mass., and Bausch & Lomb, Inc., of Rochester, N.Y. Also indicted were an executive of each company.

The grand jury said that in 1959 the two firms had combined sales of $152 million, compared with $33 million for their next four competitors.

A spokesman for American Optical said in Southbridge that the charges "are not justified. The allegations of conspiracy between American Optical Co. and Bausch & Lomb are not true. The American Optical Co. vigorously denies that it or any of its officers in any way violated the antitrust laws. Its business has been conducted independently and without collusion with any competitor."

Alton K. Marsters, vice president of Bausch & Lomb, said, "we categorically deny having engaged in either such activity."

The true bill was returned in U.S. District Court for eastern Wisconsin by a grand jury which has been taking testimony since January.

Also named in the indictment was a subsidiary corporation wholly owned by American Optical and with the same name.

The parent voluntary organization is a non-profit unit organized under the laws of Massachusetts and governed by a board of trustees. The true bill said the corporation was set up to operate in states where legality of the parent voluntary organization might be in doubt.

Officials indicted were Marsters and Victor D. Kniss, executive vice president of the American Optical Manufacturing Corporation and a trustee of the parent association.

Judge Robert E. Tehan set Sept. 11 for arraignment of the defendants.

U. S. Astronauts Ordered to Center

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — America's seven astronauts have been ordered to this military medical center. First arrivals were flight-tipped as to purpose and how long they were to stay.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington said the hand-picked crew will spend several days undergoing annual physical checkups at Lackland Air Force Base.

Four of the astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Alan Shepard, Marine Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr., Navy Lt. M. S. Carpenter and Navy Cmdr. Walter Schirra Jr., arrived Tuesday afternoon by commercial jet. Air Force Capt. Virgil (Gus)

Grissom flew in from Orlando, Fla. The space agency announced that Air Force Maj. Donald Slayton and Capt. Leroy Cooper also would fly here.

Banana Ship Sinks

PANAMA (AP) — The British banana freighter Marosanna sank in the Pacific Ocean 240 miles southwest of Panama Tuesday night after two tuna boats abandoned attempts to salvage her.

An inch-thick cable snapped as the tuna boats Larry Roe and Mary Barbara tried to tow the 2,076-ton freighter into Panama.

The Marosanna sprang a leak Monday. Her 26-man crew was picked up by other vessels.

Ohio ranks fifth among states of the Union in corn production, with more than 216 million bushels annually.

Booster Rocket Launching Again Delayed 2 Weeks

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The oft-postponed attempt to orbit a satellite "space platform" has encountered more trouble and probably will not be tried again for two weeks.

Scientists had hoped to launch the Atlas-Agena booster rocket today, the final day of an optimum eight-day period which was determined best for placing the payload, Ranger I, on the desired course.

The effort was called off Tuesday night because of technical problems. The next favorable period starts in about two weeks.

The experiment will attempt to place a satellite in orbit and from it launch the Ranger spacecraft deep into space to test techniques for sending future vehicles to the moon and beyond.

Says Reds Are Able To Hit Earth Marks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Clark C. Abt, manager of Raytheon Co.'s missile and space division, told members of the American Astronautical Society Tuesday the Soviet Union has the ability to launch weapons that can be fired from space at earth targets. He said published data indicates that the United States will have a similar capacity by 1964.

Abt said such space-triggered nuclear rockets could become secretly orbiting nuclear stockpiles for an aggressor nation while an arms ban is technically in force on earth.

The society, in its annual western meeting also heard Murray

Kornhauser, a General Electric scientist, warn that an exploding meteorite could trigger a nuclear war by acting much like a nuclear explosion.

The last large meteorite to land on earth crashed into the Soviet Union in 1947.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Both consumers and business are playing the Berlin crisis cool.

The stock market, with its eyes traditionally focused six months ahead, has placed its bets on an expected big rise in business activity. Traders figure the buildup in U.S. defense spending caused by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's threats will give the economy an extra nudge along an uphill path it's already taking. But businessmen themselves haven't rushed to place new orders. They are still playing it safe on inventories, although the cut-back in stocks which marked the recession has ended and been replaced by a very moderate upturn.

Not Affecting Orders

The possibility of price rises later from higher labor costs hasn't affected business ordering plans apparently.

Nor are consumers rushing to buy. Most are sophisticated enough to know that goods are plentiful and, what's more, that the capacity to make more goods is far from filled.

For many the Berlin crisis is just another in a seemingly endless string of crises that the Reds stir up. Much more close at hand is what the new military buildup here might do to plans of individuals and companies if reservists are called up and more youths drafted.

While businessmen are not rushing to place new orders, they are keeping an eye on several developing domestic conditions.

Will Tell at Supply Points

One is the outcome of the wage negotiations in the auto industry. This will affect not only that major industry, but also to some extent the business of the many industries that supply it—and also the individuals and firms that buy autos and trucks.

Another is the current uncertainty in the steel industry. Output is lagging, as it usually does at this time of year because of summer vacations and the change-over lull in the auto industry.

Most observers hold, however, that the present disinclination of consumer and businessman to be swayed by price and wage increases here doesn't dim the prospects for a general, if orderly, rise in the economy the rest of the year.

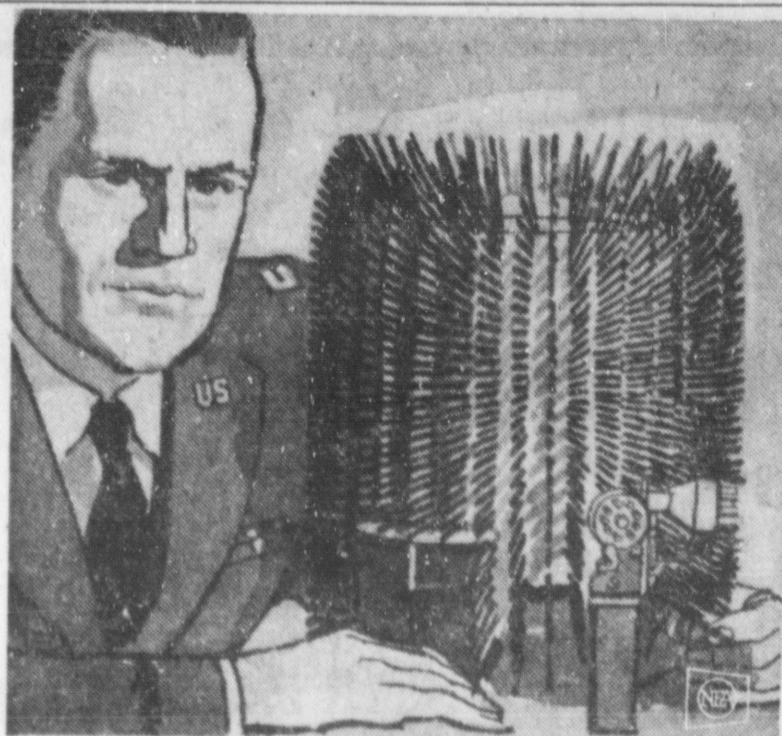

Defense Money to Help

The arms buildup with its attendant Treasury deficit will be pouring several more billion dollars into the economic stream. This promises more orders for many industries, both those in defense work and those who furnish the needed materials, as the stock market already has noted. It also means more dollars in circulation as payrolls rise.

Some fear all of this will mean another surge of inflation. But the calmer view is that inflation won't amount to much until present excess capacity for production is absorbed.

Musicals in Puerto Rico

NEW YORK (AP)—A lineup of well-known White Way performers is participating in the first musical comedy festival at San Juan, Puerto Rico, this summer. Included are Nancy Dussault, vacationing from "Do Re Mi," Helen Gallagher, Scott Merrill, Carol Taylor and veteran Joe E. Marks. The production schedule comprises "Carousel," "Guys and Dolls," "Oklahoma," and "West Side Story." Conductor for the series is Lehman Engel, also on leave from "Do Re Mi."

THERMONUCLEAR "PORCUPINE"—Quills of this porcupine-like object are heat exchangers which cool the device, a nuclear-powered generator. Intended to operate for as long as a year with one loading of a radioactive isotope, it would supply power for such things as unmanned weather stations and radio beacons for the armed forces. The generator has undergone tests at the Air Force Special Weapons Center in New Mexico.

Forced to Leave Belongings BehindRefugees Are Fearful and Tense
As They Await U.S. Planes in Cuba

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP news analyst William L. Ryan is just back from a short visit in Cuba and here reports on the problems of Cubans who seek to leave their homeland and find a new life in the United States.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
"Visit Cuba, land of happy people," says the lettering on cardboard boxes of rum offered for sale to travelers.

You smile bitterly. You are a traveler, a refugee from your own country. You are one of yet another 20,000 the United States has promised to absorb. Before the day is out you hope to escape, to join the many tens of thousands who already have left.

Tense Moments Ahead
Your goal is close — so very close. But this will be the most anxious, the most tense day of all. You have with you all the worldly possessions you can carry on an airplane to Florida. All the rest is left behind.

For months you have undergone the mental strain of waiting — lines for visas, lines for exit permits, lines for plane tickets, lines for everything — Lines inching ahead through the agonizing labyrinth of Fidel Castro's revolutionary bureaucracy. Now, at last you are at the airport. It will be the last day, if you are lucky. The last hours are the hardest of all.

They Dare Not Leave
You finally get to check your baggage. It is sent out to customs. There is nothing to do now but wait and wait. It gets hotter by the minute as the afternoon wears on and the passengers mill about the small waiting room. Once you are there you dare not leave. A window has been broken, and the room's air conditioning does no good.

You wait and wait and wait. Children are wailing, irritated by the heat and the long, exhausting vigil. It is 4 p.m. Anxious eyes scan the skies through the waiting room windows. The American plane hasn't appeared.

Await U. S. Planes
It wouldn't have mattered if it did show up on time. The customs people were a long way from finished. Then there were the interrogations by the G-2, Castro's intelligence people.

Way to Get Part
Is to Go After
It, Actress Says

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
LONDON (AP) — "When a girl knows what she wants, she should go after it."

This is Joan Collins' secret of success in inheriting the sarong of Dorothy Lamour as leading lady of Bob Hope and Bing Crosby in the seventh of their co-starring films, "Road to Hong Kong."

To be accurate Joan isn't using the sarong.

"I wear very sleek, high fashions in the picture," she reports. Joan told how she got the cherished role.

"Last year I saw 'The Facts of Life,' and I thought it was one of the funniest films I'd seen in years. Then I heard that Norman Panama and Mel Frank, who made it, were planning to do 'Road to Hong Kong' with Bing and Bob."

"I called them up and said I would love to be in the picture." Meanwhile she was embroiled with her home studio, 20th Century-Fox for turning down movie after movie. She didn't want to be cast as a siren.

"I tried unsuccessfully to convince them I wanted to do comedy," she said. "The trend is to comedy now, but there are no young comedienesses to match the great ones of the '30s and '40s, like Jean Arthur, Claudette Colbert, Rosalind Russell and Carole Lombard. I wanted a chance."

She's getting it. Joan won freedom from Fox by promising to do two more films.

"The role is actually better than the ones Dorothy Lamour had," she remarked. "I'm not just in and out of the plot; I work practically every day."

"I've already worked with Bob on a TV show, and I've met Bing. I know I'm going to have a ball. My only worry is that I'll break up so often that they'll have to fire me."

Bank Employee Is Held in Forgery

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — A bank teller who, police said, attempted to escape detection in a $1,650 forgery by repaying $60 in letters mailed from cities across the country, has been arrested.

Mahlon H. LaVasseur, 38, a teller in the Massena office of the Northern New York Trust Co., was charged with first-degree forgery.

State Police said he admitted, after his arrest Tuesday, that he took the money. He used part of it to pay debts, troopers said he told them. They recovered $900 in his home.

Troopers said a $1,560 check drawn on the account of Mrs. Rita Lantry of Hogsburg was cashed at the bank June 30.

On July 5, State Police said, Mrs. Lantry received an envelope postmarked New York City that contained $40 and a note:

"Borrowed $1,650, minus $40. Owe $1,610."

Two days later, she received $20 from Philadelphia and a note: "This will all be repaid soon."

A third note, without money, was sent from Los Angeles. It said:

"We will send you more money as soon as my husband gets to working again. We want to pay all of the $1,650 back because we know God is watching us. Out here we will have a chance. Out here we can find work. Please do not blame us too much."

Police said the return address of one note was a service that mailed letters. The envelope was traced and LaVasseur's handwriting identified, troopers said. LaVasseur's wife was not involved, they said.

100,000 Persons To Attend Drama By Mormon Body

PALMYRA, N. Y. (AP)—About 350 young Mormons tonight open the 19th annual performance of "America's Witness for Christ," a religious drama played on the hillside where the Mormon faith had its beginnings.

The outdoor drama is silhouetted against a background of colored light, falling water, and the machine-made smoke of a gigantic stage battle. It depicts the Mormon belief in an ill-fated American civilization that existed 600 years before Christ and survived as the American Indian.

More than 100,000 people are expected to attend the admission-free pageant, extended from three to four nights this year to meet increased demand.

The actors, arrayed in costumes of Aztec, Mayan, ancient Hebrew and Greek and Roman design, perform on a series of 25 stages. The recorded 375-voice Brigham Young University chorus and the 80-member Utah Symphony Orchestra provide the musical background. The orchestral score alone fills 286 pages.

The stages are set right into the side of Hill Cumorah, where, Mormons believe, young Joseph Smith was directed in 1823 by an angel to golden tablets that told the story of an ancient Hebrew civilization that reached America.

The drama relates the destruction of this civilization in a war of extermination. Scenes are changed on the hillside by means of an elaborate lighting system. This year more than four miles of electric cable has been set in underground conduits on the staging area of the hill, and a 75,000-gallon reservoir has been erected for a series of water curtains used in some scenes.

Performances start at 9 p.m. (EDT).

Albany Citizens Blame State For Downtown Blight

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Downtown Albany would not have deteriorated if the state had paid taxes on its buildings, several citizens told a state commission.

They included Mayor Erastus Corning who said that property taxes on state-owned buildings would have totaled more than $40 million since the end of World War II.

Corning spoke Tuesday night at a hearing of the Temporary State Commission on the Capital City. He said there would have been no need for the state unit if taxes had been paid.

State buildings are exempt from local property taxes.

The Republican-controlled 1961 Legislature set up the commission to recommend ways to rehabilitate Albany, a Democratic stronghold. More than 20 persons aired their views to the commission Tuesday night.

Democrats have charged the commission was politically inspired.

James T. Healey, Albany County historian, suggested that the state, because it transacts business in Albany for all New York residents, should contribute to the upkeep of property near the capital.

Albany is unattractive to industry, he said, because "it is almost impossible to get help at an average wage in a city which houses a state government."

Small pickled onions in the house? They taste good when they are used as a garnish for deviled eggs.

Reject Creek Project

CHERRY CREEK, N.Y. (AP)—Chautauque County voters have rejected the $3.8 million Conewango Creek watershed improvement project. The two-county flood control measure had been approved in Cattaraugus County. The vote Tuesday night was 636-484.

CENTRAL HUDSON

Why We Say --

WILD GOOSE CHASE

8-2

WASTED TIME: When someone goes on a "wild goose chase" he has wasted his time. The saying arose from an English game popular at the time of Shakespeare. It was like our children's game of "follow-the-leader," except that it was on horseback and the leader took a route to try to confuse his followers. The chase was compared to the zigzagging of the wild goose.

When your opponents bid a slam and you have a goodly number of high cards it may be important that you conceal your strength from declarer.

West knew better than to lead away from one of his kings against six no-trump. He made the safe lead of the ten of clubs.

South cashed four club tricks and then ran off dummy's five spades. He discarded down to the aces and queens of the red suits and West carefully guarded both kings in back of him.

In doing this West signaled in both suits. He threw the nine of hearts before the deuce and the eight of diamonds before the four spot.

Now South went into executive session with himself. All he had to do to make his contract was to finesse for the right king, but maybe there was no winning finesse. Maybe West had meant those signals. Finally South decided that he had meant them. South led a heart, went up with the ace, played the queen of hearts, and when West took the king he had to lead from his king of diamonds and give South his slam.

West had no good reason to signal. He was looking at eight points in his hand and 10 points in dummy. South had opened two no-trump and that left no high cards at all for East.

Pollution Board
To Test Crankcase
Ventilating Units

ALBANY—The State Air Pollution Control Board will conduct tests of crankcase ventilating devices in an effort to determine whether they are suitable for use in New York State.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner and board chairman, announced Tuesday.

Arrangements for installing the devices have been made with the State Office of General Services. The cars will undergo inspections and tests every 4,000 miles.

Twenty state automobiles will be used to test three commercially manufactured devices. The devices can cut air polluting emissions from automobiles by up to 30 per cent. In addition, they can reduce gasoline consumption and generally increase the operating efficiency of vehicles on which they are installed.

Researchers have established the value of crankcase ventilating devices in reducing automobile air polluting emissions," Dr. Hilleboe said. "The testing program in New York State is whether they will work properly under weather and road conditions in the state."

The devices return partially burned gases now being blown into the air from the crankcase to the cylinders where they are returned.

Dr. Hilleboe said the Air Pollution Control Board will utilize the results of the study in considering action to abate air pollution caused by vehicles in the state.

Science Reports On Dust, Smoking, Safe Sedatives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Insect allergy, hazards in partially smoked cigarettes, and safe new sedatives are items in the medical news:

Insect Dust

Bits and pieces of common insects floating in the air are an important cause of hay fever and asthma, says an allergy specialist.

House flies, May flies, aphids, beetles, mites and other creatures contribute to the dust which humans inhale.

Some people are allergic only to the insect dust, while others get their troubles from a combination of the dust, molds, and pollens. The insect allergy is more common in Southern than in Northern states.

Many victims can be desensitized with anti-allergy shots, Dr. Samuel M. Feinberg of Northwestern University writes in Constellation magazine.

Relievers

The habit of relighting half-consumed cigarettes may double a smoker's chances of getting lung cancer, say three British physicians.

They checked on 700 patients in Manchester hospitals. Among persons smoking 10 to 19 cigarettes daily, there were twice as many cases of lung tumors among those who relit cigarettes. The same hold true for persons smoking 20 to 29 cigarettes daily, but differences were less clear among those smoking 30 or more.

John Dark, M. Pemberton and Marion Russell write in The Lancet.

"If relighting is a factor in lung cancer, it might go part way to explain the much greater incidence of the disease in Britain than in the United States where, since cigarettes are cheaper, there may be less temptation to relight half-smoked 'dumps' or partially consumed cigarettes, they said.

Safe Sedatives

Barbiturates are estimated to account for 800 to 900 suicides a year.

But now researchers tell of two new sedatives which they claim induce sleep but are safe regardless of over-dosage. One is a synthetic developed in Germany, the other a barbiturate combined with a restorative which takes over if the person takes too many pills, says World Medical News.

The late Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, originated the All-Star baseball game in 1933.

5 Nuns Injured In Bus Accident

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five nuns suffered minor injuries today when the bus in which they were passengers veered off a suburban street and hit an ice cream store. All 37 sisters aboard the bus were taken to St. Agnes Hospital, but officials said only five required treatment.

The nuns were returning to Baltimore from summer school at St. Joseph's College in Emmitsburg, Md.

Baltimore County police said the accident happened in suburban Reisterstown, northwest of the city, as the bus was going around a sharp curve.

Van Kleeck-Clark Wedding Is Announced; Exchange Vows at Paltz Reformed Church

MRS. JOHN W. CLARK (Photo Workshop)

Miss Barbara Ann Van Kleeck, late William Van Kleeck, wed daughter of Mrs. Anna Van Kleeck of New Paltz and the on Saturday, July 29 at 2 p. m. ceremony in the Reformed Church of New Paltz.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Gerret J. Wulfschlegel, pastor. Mrs. Kurtz of New Paltz was organist. The church was decorated with baskets of white carnations and gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. William Van Kleeck of Saddlebrook, N. J. She wore a gown of white silk organza with modified scoop neckline, tiny shirred sleeves, fitted bodice trimmed with clusters of seed pearls and a bouffant skirt of silk organza posed over taffeta. The top of her bodice was of French Chantilly lace as were the scattered lace motifs on the front of the skirt and the wide panel forming the cathedral train. Her veil of imported silk illusion was gathered to a double tiered crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses center with a white orchid corsage.

Miss Janet M. Van Kleeck was maid of honor for her sister. Her gown was of romance blue with modified scoop neckline, fitted bodice and bell-shaped ballerina length skirt of silk mist posed over taffeta. Her crown was of starched nylon with flirtation veil. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants were Miss Shirley Van Kleeck, New Paltz, the bride's niece; Miss Barbara Clark, Port Ewen, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Carole Ungerland, New Paltz, niece of the bride; Mrs. Joan Steeley, Closter, N. Y., sister of the bride; and Mrs. Betsy Simpson of Bridgeport, Conn. Their powder blue gowns and crowns were identical to that worn by the maid of honor. They carried nosegays of carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy J. Steeley of Closter, N. Y., the bride's niece, was flower girl. Her gown was identical to that worn by the maid of honor and she carried a basket of blue and white carnations. Philip Slicker of Highland Falls was best man for his brother-in-law. Ushers were Howard Whitaker of New Paltz, the bride's nephew; Clark Mains, Port Ewen; Irv Wisneskie, Kingston; Fred Spinneweber, Port Ewen; and Edward Marrott, Kingston. Raymond Van Kleeck Jr., nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

The bride's mother wore a dress of beige chiffon with moss green accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of yeoman blue matte jersey with matching accessories. Her corsage was also of white orchids.

The reception was held at The Capri Rest in Port Ewen for approximately 150 guests. The couple left afterwards for a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico. For traveling, the bride wore an imported Italian knit dress of tangerine and white with matching accessories. She also wore a white orchid.

The bride was graduated from New York State University College at Cortland. She is a member of the teaching staff at the Chambers School in Kingston. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and served two years with the U. S. Army. He is associated with his father, W. H. Clark & Son in Port Ewen.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will reside in Port Ewen when they return.

New York State Craft Fair

There has always been a great deal of interest shown in this area for County Fairs, exhibitions of art, handicraft, and in line with this interest, I think there will be many who may want to attend the New York State Craft Fair in Binghamton which opens Tuesday, Aug. 15.

Briefly the information is as follows:

Free demonstrations by professional craftsmen in eleven different craft fields, free technical and marketing counsel, free talks by top craft people, and an exhibition and sale of fine craft articles from all over the State will be features of the New York State Craft Fair in Binghamton Tuesday, Aug. 15 through Saturday, Aug. 19. It will be held at Narpur College, Vestal Parkway East, Binghamton, and the public as well as craftsmen are invited. Pottery, textiles, silver hollowware, rugs, jewelry, wood work, textiles and enamels will be among the articles on exhibit and sale.

An innovation at the Fair this year is the Marketing Workshop sponsored by the New York State Department of Commerce. In the college auditorium from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, experienced craftsmen will discuss techniques and methods by which increased production can be achieved without sacrifice of quality. They will illustrate their discussion by fine articles from the exhibit which, produced by efficient methods, could prove profitable in the commercial market. Speaking Tuesday will be Lawrence G. Copeland, silver designer and a noted metal craftsman; and Robert Turner, potter, an instructor at the New York State College of Ceramics, Alfred University. In the Wednesday session, textile designer Pola Stout will speak on her field of weaving, and all three craftsmen will answer questions from the floor. Miss Guin Hall, Deputy Commerce Commissioner, will moderate the sessions.

Also as part of the Marketing Workshop, New York State Commerce Department Business Consultants will be available in the Hostess Lounge adjacent to the auditorium for free consultations on craft merchandising. Consultants Mildred Meskil and Blanche McIntosh will advise craftsmen individually on any phase of craft marketing—pricing, present market trends, packaging and shipping, and regulations on selling wholesale, retail, or by mail.

During the Fair's five days, 13 New York State Craftsmen of outstanding professional ability will demonstrate their skills in the various craft fields. Didier Journeaux of Port Chester and Jean Klym of Syracuse, will show pottery making; Kaye Denning, Plainville, L. I., enameling; LeRoy Wilco, Endicott, rugs and batik; Dr. Robert Wadsworth, Rochester, metal casting; and John Rogers, also of Rochester, hollowware and jewelry. The art of wood turning will be demonstrated by Paul Mepler, Genesee; leather work, by Huldj Gutekunst, Orchard Park; spinning by Dorothe Lyons, Byron; weaving by Robert Stafford of Philadelphia. Anne Roe, New York City, will demonstrate stone polishing; W. H. Elwood of Ithaca will show how he makes his small model engines, and our own local Berta Frey, Bearsville, will be in charge of weaving information and the exhibition room.

Among the talks scheduled are "Weaving in Various Countries" by Mrs. Doris Clement, and "Crafts as a Way of Life" by Didier Journeaux. Victor Patanek will discuss "Design," and Peter Ostuni will comment on the reasons for his selection of the craft pieces displayed in the Fair's Court of Honor.

Two special features of the Fair this year will be a room devoted to crafts as an occupational therapy and a room for viewing slides of outstanding and inspirational work.

The Fair will be open from 1 p. m. to 10 each day from Tuesday, Aug. 15, through Friday, Aug. 18 and close at 6 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 19. It is the eighth annual Fair sponsored by York State Craftsmen, an organization whose membership of professional and vocational craftsmen is state-wide.

Mrs. Dorothy Byer, Vestal, potter, is Manager of the Fair; and Charlotte Stanton, enamelist and metalsmith of Horseheads and Dundee, Assistant Manager. Further information on the Fair is available from York State Craftsmen, Chamber of Commerce Office, Ithaca.

Q: My fiancé lives alone in a two room apartment. His hobby is cooking, and rather than go out to a restaurant to dine, he prefers to prepare and serve dinner in his apartment. This brings me to my question: When he invites others in, I do not hesitate to go, but I do not think it is proper for me to dine alone with him in his apartment. When I tell this to my fiancé his answer is, "That may have been true in your mother's day, but it is perfectly acceptable in the present day." Will you please tell me if it is no longer considered improper for a woman to dine in a man's apartment?

A: A young woman dining alone in a man's apartment is still frowned upon, and talked about, by Mrs. Grundy and even though you are engaged, it is wise to avoid dining alone in your fiancé's apartment.

Restaurant Etiquette

Q: Having recently come to the United States from a foreign country, I have some questions of etiquette that are bothering me and I wonder if you would be so kind as to answer them for me. When a man entertains a woman in a restaurant, does he help her out of her coat if she wears it to the table? Does the man hold her chair while she seats herself?

A: He should help her with her coat, and if the head waiter or whoever shows them to their table fails to do so, he should hold her chair for her.

Wedding Guest in White Dress

Q: I was a guest at my cousin's wedding last Saturday. I wore a white dress, pink shoes and pink gloves. I was criticized for having worn a white dress. I was told that a white dress is improper at a wedding for anyone except the bride. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Home Extension Service News

The food or precooled sweet corn in today's market has changed greatly from the corn early settlers found being used in the religious rites of American Indian tribes. The greatest changes have one brought a load to town. Most corn was eaten canned.

Then came the development of varieties of corn suitable for shipment and the development of improved packing and shipping materials, equipment, and methods. Fresh sweet corn became easily available. It is one of the few fresh vegetables that has been gaining in popularity with a corresponding increase in per capita consumption. Canned corn is still popular, but over one-half the corn we will eat this year will be fresh.

"Fifteen minutes from garden to kettle" is an old saying about sweet corn, but such speed is seldom possible for city dwellers. So, for best flavor, buy from iced or refrigerated displays, or from cool, shaded stands. Sweet corn must be sweet, and this depends upon the amount of sugar in the kernels. The sugar is elusive—at summer temperatures an ear of corn may lose one-half of its sugar in 24 hours. Storage on crushed ice throughout the day results in the loss of only one-fourth of the sugar. Sometimes you may be fortunate enough to know when the corn is picked. The shorter the time from picking to eating, the better will be the flavor. And always remember the rule for sweet corn: keep it cool.

Select only the number of ears to be used in the day of purchase. Hurry fresh corn from the market to the refrigerator or range—the sooner it is used, the juicier and sweeter it will be. You may leave the corn in the husk until just before cooking. If you prefer to husk the corn before refrigerating it, be sure to wrap the ears or to place them in a moisture-proof container to avoid drying. Unused cooked corn may be kept refrigerated for a day or two and used as any leftover cooked vegetable.

At the Markets

Meat And Poultry—Good news for shoppers—beef, chicken, and turkey are plentiful and especially economical. General retail prices for broilers, large and small turkeys, and many cuts of beef, have been running considerably below a year ago. Markets may feature a variety of cuts of beef. Watch for price slashes and capitalize on the current lowered prices even more.

Fish—Fresh bluefish from Long Island and New Jersey waters are starting to arrive in quantity. The most desirable sizes weigh 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 pounds, drawn. The bluefish, popular for its flavor, is often baked. Other fresh fish in the markets: butternut, cod, haddock, mackerel, swordfish, tuna, scup and sea bass.

Vegetables—Market scouts cite a wide range of fresh vegetables for your choosing. They mention corn as a leading item. Potatoes, particularly new but some old, are plentiful and low in price. Other fresh vegetable choices: snap beans, beets, cabbage, Chinese cabbage, cauliflower, green onions, peppers, yellow and green squash, and tomatoes. The recent heat wave has affected quality of some of the salad greens, but shoppers with a keen eye to their purchases will find a variety to choose from. Shop carefully for lettuce—Iceberg, Boston, and romaine. You may find some Bibb lettuce available. Leaf lettuce, almost never seen in local markets, is also reported available.

Fruit—Peaches are plentiful now, as are melons—honeydew, cantaloupe, and watermelon. Other fruit choices include blueberries, limes, and nectarines.

Anderson Is Named New Navy Commander

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., 54, a naval aviator, is the new commander of all U. S. Navy ships at sea and stations ashore.

Anderson took over as chief of naval operations in traditional ceremonies at the U. S. Naval Academy Tuesday.

He succeeds Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, retiring after 42 years in the Navy and an unprecedented three terms as CNO.

Burke, 59, said sed power is the "one constant influence on the affairs of men and nations" in the midst of a changing world.

Anderson, elevated to the Navy's top post by President Kennedy, pledged to keep the Navy "on course and steaming strong, regardless of what the future may portend."

Fantasy-Comedy at Woodstock

There will always be a ruling class and the ruler is determined by nature and circumstances. This is the nucleus of the J. M. Barrie play, THE ADMIRABLE CRICHTON which opened last night at the Woodstock Playhouse. Around this idea, Barrie has built an absolutely hilarious spoof on relationships between the ruling class and servants. The cast took several curtain calls before a very enthusiastic audience.

If you like fun — this is the play for you. Aside from the serious note of class distinction which Barrie seems to uphold, the play is as light and airy as a feather. I would also say that Arnold Tager, director, has brought out the best in the actors and actresses who portrayed their roles with great success.

Charles Grodin, who plays the ever proper butler, Mr. Crichton, really comes into his own in this play. His transition from the haughty servant to the ruler on a lonely isolated island was very well handled. Grodin does a convincing job of acting and provides much of the laughter throughout the evening.

Grodin, originally from Pittsburgh, studied drama at the University of Miami. He worked with Uta Hagan and Lee Strasberg off-Broadway and acted in DON'T DESTROY ME and AN EVENING OF J. D. SALINGER.

Grodin has enjoyed several leading roles on television, among which were appearances on the Armstrong Circle Theatre and the part of Joe in the serial LOVE OF LIFE. He was most recently on the PLAY OF THE WEEK presentation of Reginald Rose's drama on integration, BLACK MONDAY and anticipates appearing in the New York stage production of the work later this year.

George Gitto, as the very amusing Hon. Ernest Woolley, does an admirable job also. You could feel that Gitto was "at home" in this type of role and he was thoroughly enjoyable.

Taking the part of the three sisters were Gaye Glaeser as Lady Agatha Lasenby, Stefani Frangos, as Lady Catherine Lasenby and Andrea Martin as Lady Mary Lasenby, the most dominant of the three, who later almost kills the fantastic Crichton.

The girls' father is played by Jerry Weiss, and he was delightful in this particular role. First-rate performances were handled by Benes Mardenn as the Rev. John Treherne, Burt Heyman as Lord Brocklehurst, Roni Norwin, William Hoffman, Larry Hitchcock, Robert Stevenson, Ann Halzell, Vicki May, Judy Rosenblatt, Bettina Liss, Priscilla Machold, Gilles Malkine and Jonathan Hubbell. Their characterizations were excellent and to elaborate on them would only spoil the play for those planning to see it.

There are three set changes for which Fred Sammut, designer, Vincent Sorrentino, lighting, and Robert Stevenson, production stage manager, can take bows.

The play will continue on stage through Sunday. Curtain is at 8:40 p. m., and at 7:30 p. m. on Sunday.

Next Week's Offering
Next week, M. Edgar Rosenblum, producer, will present one of the greatest hits of the century, DEATH OF A SALESMAN by Arthur Miller. The play has won just about every award including the Pulitzer Prize, New York Drama Critics Awards.

Taking the part of the salesman will be the talented Robert Hacha. Julie Reilly will portray his wife. Arnold Tager will direct and Fred Sammut will do the settings again.

Playhouse Sidelights
A new exhibition will open this Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Polari Gallery located on the grounds of the Woodstock Playhouse. Prints by Carol Summers and Sydney Chavetz, wall hangings by Pia Alexander and metal sculpture by Steve Burr will be the features of this new show. The exhibit will be at Polari for two weeks through August 18.

We also note that Woodstock Playhouse will give a special children's musical TOM SAWYER on Saturday at 11 a. m. The classic story is set to tuneful music and performed by six professional actors. The show had a long run in New York.

A second children's show will be presented August 19 by the Children's Dance Theatre.

Costello Wins State Jaycee in Sudden Death Playoff

Sinks 25-Foot Birdie Putt to Beat Favorite

Rick Barthel Cards 68 To Grab Third Place

William (Buzzy) Costello dropped a 25-foot putt for a birdie-3 on the first hole of a sudden death playoff at Amsterdam Municipal course Tuesday and became the New York State Jaycee golf champion for 1961.

A Kingston High School teammate of Costello's, Rick Barthel, closed with a 3-under-par 68 to grab third place and a berth on the New York State squad which goes to Denver, Colorado later this month. The 68 was the best round in the tournament.

Costello nipped Howard Derrick of Amsterdam on his own course after they had forced the playoff with 36 hole totals of 141. The local ace had the championship in his grasp on the 36th hole but blew an 18-inch putt to send the tournament into extra holes.

Costello shot a 70 Monday and 37-34-71 yesterday at the par 36-55-71 Amsterdam Municipal course. Derrick, who holds the course record of 63, had a 72 yesterday and a 69 Monday. Derrick, 17, was the pre-tournament favorite.

The victory also qualified Costello for the New York State Junior Amateur tournament at Troy Country Club on August 8-9-10.

Costello slipped one over par on the back nine, Costello day, while Derrick played even par. On the back nine, Costello rallied with three birdies for a 34, while Derrick slipped one over with 36.

Three Birdies
Buzzy ran down a six-foot birdie putt on the 10th hole, then chipped in from 20 feet on the 14th hole. He got his third birdie from 6 feet on the 17th. His approach putt on the 18th (36th) stopped 18 inches short of the cup but Costello missed it.

Both got good drives on the extra hole and were on in two. Derrick was 15 feet away and Costello 25. After Buzzy's putt trickled into the cup, Derrick gave it a good try but slipped past the cup on his birdie attempt to end the playoff.

Barthel, meanwhile, employed a hot putter to card nines of 35-33. He had birdies on four holes and only one bogie during the day.

There also were playoffs for fourth place and for the two alternate spots for the International Tournament, Aug. 20-26, at Denver. The top four finishers and two alternates qualified for the Denver test. Costello placed third in 1960 and played in the Nationals at Waterloo, Iowa.

Charles DiCesare, 15, of Rochester gained the fourth spot in the second hole of overtime play, dumping John Fonagy, 17, of Buffalo into the alternate role. Both had 145 at the end of 36 holes.

Fred Woerner of Port Jervis beat Denny Lyons of Jamestown for the other alternate spot after they had tied at 146 for regulation play.

The tournament attracted a field of 61 boys 17 and under. The cards:

Iroquois Rally Routs Mohawks

Trailing 8-0, the Iroquois rallied with 12 runs in the fourth to edge the Mohawks, 12-10, in a Met Knot Hole league game halted by darkness after 4 1/2 innings.

The Mohawks outhit the winners, 15-9, but couldn't overcome the shock of the big inning.

Bill Pleugh, Mike Proser and George Greenidge pitched for the Iroquois, with Proser getting the victory. The four Mohawk pitchers—Al Mitchell, Ed Collins, Alan Deyo and Al Briody—permitted 9 hits, as Deyo took the loss.

Al Mitchell paced the Mohawks with a single, double and triple. Ed Collins stroked three singles, while Ray Hull, Alan Deyo, Al Briody and Blaine Kilmer had a single and double apiece. Lou Propp and Bill Cochran hit two baggers and John Howard a pair of singles.

The Business at Hand

Baltimore and Frisco Move to Tighten Races

With the two-day All-Star game break out of the way, the surging Baltimore Orioles and San Francisco Giants reopen their bids today to make three-way battles of the major league races.

The Giants, third in the National League and eight games back of the leading Dodgers, take the direct and more dangerous route. They face the Dodgers—the hottest club in the majors—with eight straight victories tonight at Los Angeles in the first game of a two-day series. The Giants have won five of their last seven.

To make it even tougher for the Giants they run into Johnny Podres (13-2) in the opener. The stocky southpaw has won five straight. He will be opposed by right-hander Juan Marichal (7-7).

While the coast clubs are battling away, the Cincinnati Reds entertain their favorite pigeons. They meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a three-game set, starting with a doubleheader tonight. The Reds are 12-0 over the Phillies and thanks to the forlorn cellar-dwellers are only a half game back of the Dodgers.

The Reds will send Jim O'Toole (10-8) and Joey Jay (14-6) against Philadelphia's Don Ferrarese (2-7) and Johnny Buzhardt (3-10).

In the other National League games Milwaukee pits Bob Bell (8-8) and Bobby Hendley (3-3) against the Cubs' Glen Hobbie (7-11) and Jack Curtis (7-5) in a day doubleheader at Chicago and Pittsburgh matches Bob Friend (10-13) against the Cards' Larry Jackson (6-8) in a nighter at St. Louis.

Orioles on Move
The Orioles, who swept three out of four from the Yanks before the All-Star halt and seven of their last eight, are 8 1/2 games back of the American league-leading New Yorkers and seven behind the second-place Detroit Tigers. With the doubleheaders coming up, the Orioles have a solid chance to gain ground with their solid, improving young pitching staff.

The Orioles will call on Chuck Estrada (8-5) and Dick Hall (5-4) to oppose Minnesota's Pedro Ramos (8-11) and Don Lee (3-2) at Baltimore tonight.

The Yanks, minus their suspended manager Ralph Houk, sends Whitey Ford (19-2) and Ralph Terry (6-1) against Kansas City's Jim Archer (7-5) and Bob Shaw (6-9) at the Yankee Stadium. Ford guns for his 14th straight victory and his first 20-win season. His high mark was 19-6 in 1952.

Detroit is at home against Washington. Don Mossi (10-2) and Phil Regan (9-6) oppose the Senators' Joe McClain (7-11) and Marty Kutyna (6-2).

Cleveland's fourth-place Indians, now 11 1/2 games back of first, pit Jim Perry (8-8) and Jim Grant (9-5) against Ray Herbert (7-9)

35 Club Nips Kiwanis, 1-0 in Babe Ruth Loop

Rotary Tossers Edge KPA, 4-3

The 35 Club blanked Kiwanis, 1-0, in the Babe Ruth League Tuesday, but it took several ingredients to account for the lone run scored by Dave Barry in the second inning. Kiwanis pulled off a triple play with the bases loaded in that same inning. Matter of fact, it took three walks, a single and wild pitch to do it. In the other game, Rotary nipped the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, 4-3.

Paul Natale blanked the Kiwanis on three scattered hits, struck out 16 and walked five. Jay Sperling started for Kiwanis but gave way to Mike Burns in the second. Burns proceeded to check the 35 Club on two hits the rest of the way. The winners collected four singles, Natale getting one.

All in First Inning

Rotary jumped on Bill Rhinehardt for all four runs in the first inning and the KPA never recovered, although they rallied for one run in the fifth and a pair in the sixth.

Duane Baxter was the winner on a strong five-hitter. He struck out five. Rhinehardt permitted only four blows and fanned eight. Dan Potter of KPA and Rich Kelder of Rotary had a single and double apiece. Bill Barth hit two singles for KPA.

Woodstock Yanks Rout Dodgers

Yankee sluggers exploded with 15 hits and got the benefit of 20 walks to crush the Dodgers, 21-3, in a four-inning contest in the Woodstock Township Little League.

The league leaders scored in every inning, getting two in the first, then 6, 9 and 4 runs. They also added two more in the top of the fifth when game was halted by darkness.

Varick Graver limited the Dodgers to four hits and struck out 11 men, one short of perfect.

Pete Glass, Yankee shortstop, was the slugging star with two doubles and two singles in five trips to the plate. Graver helped his own cause with a double and two singles and Rogan Graham struck a single and double.

Stanley Longyear slammed three singles for the winners.

Doug DeWitt was "3 for 3", all singles, for the Dodgers.

Watch Progress Of 3 Children

By BURT FOGELBURG

Rapid City Journal Staff Writer HERMOSA, S. D. (AP)—Lyla and Cliff Jenney watch three of their five attractive children die a little each day but they can't believe it's so.

Tammy Kay, 3; Timothy Lee, 14 months; and Teddy James, 2 months, all have cystic fibrosis, one of the world's most relentless killers of children and a disease for which there is no known cure.

Mrs. Jenny, 24, confesses: "You just have to live with it. Your only hope is that they will find a cure."

Cystic fibrosis is a disease which leads to long months or years of disabling lung infection. It slowly suffocates a child in a sea of thickening lung secretions.

Twyla Rae, 4, and Terrence, 2, apparently have escaped the disease which was first detected in Tammy a year ago.

Cystic fibrosis can only be slowed, not stopped. There is only temporary relief by employing nourishing, healing foods combined with medication and equipment in skilled, professional hands.

Doctors in Minneapolis told the couple there is no history of a person living past 25 with cystic fibrosis.

Their physician in Rapid City has predicted Tammy will be lucky to get through grade school and Timmy has a chance of making it through high school. More tests are needed to determine the severity in the baby.

Also termed fibrocystic disease of the pancreas or mucoviscidosis, cystic fibrosis is found once in every 600 to 1,000 births.

Four Barn Fires Near Greenville Are Under Probe

Four barn fires in the Greenville area of Greene County within a four-day period caused residents of the area to suspect a "firebug" may be operating in the area. State Police at Leeds are being assisted in a special patrol of the area by Greene County sheriff's officers.

The first fire was Wednesday night last week when the John Friedewald barn was burned. Thursday night the barn of William Butler on Route 91 just east of Greenville was leveled. Friday afternoon the barn on the farm operated by Hilda Werner on Route 81 just east of Greenville was destroyed. The fourth fire was on Saturday when the John Terpilwetz barn in Greenville Center was destroyed by fire.

Some people in the area have expressed the opinion that a firebug, like one who set fire to many barns in Greene and Columbia County in 1952, is again on the prowl. Although three days have elapsed since the last barn was destroyed, residents of the area are still apprehensive. All four of the fires are still under investigation.

Proclamation Says Uncle Sam From N. Y. State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "Uncle Sam was a New Yorker," Gov. Rockefeller declared in proclamation Sept. 13 Uncle Sam Day in New York State.

Rockefeller said Tuesday that congressional approval of a bill recognizing Samuel Wilson of Troy, a meatpacker in the War of 1812, as the country's Uncle Sam "would be a fitting affirmation of the principle of Americanism which Samuel Wilson personified."

Indiana also claims to be the home of Uncle Sam, symbol of the United States.

Outbreak of Cholera HONG KONG (AP) — An outbreak of cholera in Toisan, Kwangtung province, hometown of many overseas Chinese in the United States and southeast Asia, was reported today by the newspaper Wah Kiu Man Po.

Quoting an arrival from Red China, the paper said the Communists have cordoned the area to prevent the epidemic spreading.

The report said that due to a shortage of medicines, "numerous persons" have died.

Coast Guard Exam

Rear Admiral Edwin J. Roland, USCG, Commander of the Third Coast Guard District, announced today that the next annual competitive examination for appointment to the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., as a cadet will be held February 19 and 20, 1962. Applications are now being accepted.

Appointments to the Academy are made on the basis of this competitive examination only. There are no congressional appointments or geographical quotas.

Further information concerning examination and requirements may be obtained by contacting Commander, Third Coast Guard District, Room 129, Custom House, New York 4, N. Y.

District Changes Slated This Year

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—The chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment said today he expected the Legislature to finish the job of re-aligning congressional districts this year—not next year, as some maintain.

State Sen. Robert C. McEwen, Ogdenburg Republican, told a reporter he did not know where Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, Schenectady Democrat, had heard that the reapportionment would have to wait until 1962.

McEwen commented after Stratton said in Washington that block-by-block census figures for New York City and Long Island were not available. Stratton said this meant that the McEwen committee no longer had any excuse for delaying public hearings on reapportionment or for saying reapportionment must wait until 1962.

McEwen said again that no public hearings were planned, although "we are happy to have constructive suggestions from anyone."

He said all the necessary census figures should be available very soon and his staff would be able to proceed with the "laborious job" of mapping new districts in accordance with population changes.

The Legislature is slated to hold a special session after the November election to complete action on the congressional reapportionment. McEwen said the state legislative reapportionment might have to wait until 1962, however.

Stratton's statement concerned only congressional reapportionment.

3 Children Shot Fatally; Father Takes His Life

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "I love the kids and you so much I can't live without you."

That was a note written by a father who had just shot to death his three children and wounded his wife Tuesday. A little later the man, Clyde Newhart, 26, of nearby Morristown, took his own life, officers said.

Deputies said Newhart, apparently enraged by a pending divorce by his wife, picked up the children at the home of relatives, drove to a dump north of the little eastern Ohio village and killed them with blasts from a shotgun.

Bodies of the youngsters, twins Randy and Candy, 18 months, and Bobby, 2½, were found by officers after the father left a note telling where he had killed them. Officers said Randy still held a toy truck in his hand.

After killing the children, Newhart drove to his home where he shot his wife, Peggy, in the chest and left the note. A little later, a woman called the sheriff to report that she had seen a man shoot himself. The man was Newhart.

Mrs. Newhart was reported in fair condition.

Search Continues In Hudson River For Highland Man

An 81-year-old Highland man who disappeared Monday morning was still missing today and the search for him is continuing along the Hudson River in that vicinity.

State police, firemen and volunteers were still scouring the area today, for Ralph Anzina whose cane was found Monday on a Highland dock.

Anzina was reported missing early Monday morning from his home on Thorne Lane, Highland. It was reported that he had been in ill health.

He was last seen about 1 a. m. when he retired. His wallet, hat and other personal effects were left at home.

22 Soldiers Killed

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese government says 22 soldiers were killed in action and six were killed accidentally in operations during July against African rebels in northern Angola.

The number of wounded was not given nor was there any estimate of African casualties.

Turmoil, Endless Struggle Communist Long-Range Plan

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—You can expect world turmoil for the rest of your life. Not big war, maybe, but endless conflict, struggle, revolution around the globe.

It's all spelled out calmly in the Russian Communist party's program for the next 20 years, and beyond.

This program, the first laid down in Moscow since 1919, was released Saturday. It fills 64 columns of print in the New York Times.

When Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf" — his blueprint for the wild savagery of Nazism later — unfortunately no one took it seriously.

It looked like the work of a neurotic, and it was. No doubt many men had a hand in the new Russian Communist party program which has the blessing of Premier Khrushchev. No one is calling this neurotic.

It is frankly and confidently Moscow's blueprint for world conquest by communism. This must be taken as seriously as Mein Kampf should have been.

Two Main Parts It is divided into two main parts. One is a catalogue of rosy promises of a richer and easier life for the Russian people in the next 20 years.

It was this part of the program which got most attention when it was made public over the weekend.

The other, predicting the ultimate triumph of communism without a timetable, is the blueprint for the long, fierce, unending struggle ahead.

Reading the full text in this part of the program makes the idea of "peaceful coexistence," which Khrushchev preaches, look like an exercise in the Communist lexicon of double-speak.

It says quite blandly that peaceful coexistence between communism and capitalism is not only possible but desirable. After all, it explains, this just gives communism more time to take over.

It says, for instance: "Communists have never held that the road to revolution lies necessarily through wars between countries. The great objective of the working class can be realized without war."

The real chiller is Moscow's idea of what should be happening through that long twilight period of peaceful coexistence — that everywhere Communists should be trying to take over whatever country they're in.

Revaluation Is Theme The means may vary but the central theme is revolution. The revolution may not necessarily be violent, it, for example, Communists could get elected in enough numbers to control a parliament and thus take over government.

The program sounds a little skeptical that Communists are going to conquer many places without violent revolution. It says: "Leninism maintains, and historical experience confirms, that the ruling classes do not yield power of their own free will."

That's the polite way of saying you'll have to fight for it, boys. The program emphasizes that one country after another should be knocked off from within—to avoid war—although the exact method will vary from country to country, depending on how much and what kind of opposition there is.

Pattern for Success This advice is given: "The success of the struggle which the working class wages for the victory of the revolution will depend on how well the working class and its party master the use of all forms of struggle—peaceful and non-peaceful, parliamentary and extra-parliamentary—and how well they are prepared to replace one form of struggle by another as quickly and unexpectedly as possible."

The Russians are too practical to assume that Communists today Russia will have enough sense to do things right by themselves.

So the program reassures them: "The Communist party of the Soviet Union will continue to strengthen the unity and cohesion of the ranks of the great army of Communists of all countries."

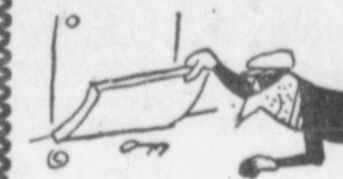

Boiled down to one sentence this means for unnumbered years ahead Communists everywhere around the world, with Russian help, will be trying to knock off one country after another—hoping all eventually will fall under the Red banner.

Killed Hitting Pole

BROCKTON, N.Y. (AP)—William Noble, 18, of nearby Lambertton, was killed early today when the motorcycle he was riding left Route 380 near this Chautauque County village and struck a utility pole.
